IMPORTANT FROM WASHINGTON.

Our Relations with Great Britain.

Announcement of Continued Peace—No Collision Expected by the Administration.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Daily Times.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Nov. 14.

You may rest assured that nothing has transpired in our diplomatic relations, that could give the President the slightest intimation of any unfriendly purpose in the ordering of a British fleet to American waters. There really is no excitement or uneasiness felt by the Administration, if positive assurance to that effect are to be believed.

Secretary MARCY thinks that possibly, Great Britain intends to interfere with WALKER. If such should be the case, the President hints at difficulties that may result. Beyond this, no one in official circles believes that a collision between our Government and that of Great Britain is possible.

It cannot be that the British Government has taken umbrage in consequence of the threatened dismissal of Mr. CRAMPTON, for, if so, why has it submitted to the imprisonment of its Consul at Cologne, who was found guilty of the same offence?

On the Sound Dues question, Lord PALMERSTON professes to coincide heartily in our views. In regard to the Central-American Treaty, the President waits for the action of Congress; so there can be no collision here. S.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Nov. 12, 1855.

It is not surprising that the blustering of the London Times, in regard to the motive impelling the British Government to send so large a fleet to the West Indian station, should create a feeling of uneasiness in the Commercial Emporium of the Western World. I am satisfied, however, after careful inquiry, that there is nothing within the knowledge of official and diplomatic circles, having tending to indicate a disposition, on the part of the British Government, to embroil their country in conflict with the United States.

SPEAKERS ARE THEIR ARTFUL DODGES.

True it is, that certain presses in the United States profess to have information specifically detailing the cause of grievance which England proposes to redress by means of her fleet in our waters; and the lesser organ have pretends to know that our relations with Great Britain are in a precarious state, because of Mr. CRAMPTON's violation of the Neutrality laws; also, that England has been pursuing towards the United States, for months past, "a course of insolence and bluster" which is to "arouse the deepest authority of Americans"—all of which, we are to infer, creates the necessity for the large naval force sent here to check us. In order to impress the public with entire confidence in its wonderful means of information, and therefore in its advocacy, the semi-organ continually mixes with protests that it does not speak "by authority," mysterious hints that considerations of its duty to public policy restrain it from telling half of what its confidential position compels it to learn.

NO REFUGE BETWEEN GREAT BRITAIN AND THE U. S.

Lest the press to which I refer may do harm, through means of statements which it puts forth in this comically mysterious manner, let me say once for all, what is very well known to the initiated, that it really is not permitted to learn a word more of Governmental affairs than just so much of the surface as is essential to its use for purposes which the Union's dignity relieves the latter from serving. I deny, and upon good authority, that the President's Message will show any insolence in Great Britain's correspondence with the United States, either in regard to Mr. CRAMPTON's case or Central American affairs.

HOW THE ACCOUNT STANDS.

In regard to the former, our Government has made a demand for the British Minister's recall, which has not yet been refused; and, of course, there can have been no insolence in regard to that affair. As to Central America, Mr. MARCY, some time since, insisted that England should give us a definitive statement as to what is her construction of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. She has done so at last, and rejected our construction of that instrument, but in courteous language, and without insolence or threats. The correspondence betrays not the slightest clue to the naval reinforcements in the West Indies. In short, I appeal to the documents which will accompany the President's Message to Congress to show that, up to this hour, nothing has been received from the British Ministry calculated to create a rupture, or to excite the suspicion that her fleet is designed to menace the United States.

THE BRITISH MAY TAKE GREYTOWN—NO WAR SPECK.

There is some reason to believe, however, that the British forces will look in at the Isthmus to see what the filibusters are doing there; and there are conjectures that it may take possession of Greytown. All this, however, is mere conjecture. If it should be realized, it will be for Congress to say whether we shall back up the Monroe doctrine with round shot or not. And so it will remain for Congress to determine what shall be done with the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, if we cannot abrogate it by a new negotiation which shall reconcile the conflicting views of the parties thereto. If there is a war speck upon our horizon, it is still a distant one, and cannot be seen except through the uncertain light of speculative surmise.

COL. WALKER—HOW CAN HE BE REACHED?

Col. WALKER's adoption by the new Government of Nicaragua makes him a good citizen, and frees him from all the penalties of his late career so far as they might have been enforced by that Republic. It does not, however, release him from liability to indictment in the United States for violation of the Neutrality laws, should he ever happen within reach of the federal authority. As we have no extradition treaty with Nicaragua, we cannot ask her to give him up for trial; but still she may do it voluntarily, if she chooses. I am inclined to believe the United States authorities are expecting to bring him within the operation of our laws by one of these means.

THE REGULAR MONITOR OF THE SEMINOLES—PIRACY.

The schooner Amelia, recently seized at Port-au-Prince, by request of the United States Consul, is to be brought to New-York by the sloop-of-war Germantown, which has probably sailed on that mission ere this time. Her officers and crew will be tried for violation of the Revenue laws of the United States—and, not improbably, also on the charge of having been engaged in the Slave-trade. I do not know on what evidence the Government expects to sustain a capital charge.

[illegible] FOR OUR NAVAL SERVICE.

The gallant Commodore, PERRY, now in command of the home squadron, is here again, by special order, to receive instructions relative to his proposed cruise in the Gulf, whither he goes with the Powhatan and the Queen, early in December. Doubtless, to watch the movements of the British fleet on San Juan or Greytown, to which point it is understood he will proceed.

AN ERROR WITHIN A YEAR—[illegible] MR.

I find where I reported the extracts of the Day Book, until between a day or two since, that it not only warranted your correspondent of the crime of having transmitted to you the Trade Statistics about which Mr. Assistant-Secretary WARRINGTON was so much exercised, but also of being a Bitter-Cracker. Remarkable fellow that Day Book man. Knows his mark; better than a fox for the Rhode Island. Yet in reply, let me assure him that Mr. WARRINGTON will pay well for his information, if he can only prove its accuracy,—for that functionary has taken absolutely to get the slightest clue as to who sent you the tables you published three weeks ago; and the statement that they were obtained from the printers, and not from the Department, is a mere trick to relieve the Department from its responsibility.

[illegible] NOW AWAY.

As to your correspondent's nationality, he is obliged for the hint, and will get naturalized immediately, lest Buchanan should be after him, and spoil his vote. As he was born in Columbia Co., N. Y., however, and one of his parents was a native of New-York City, and the other of Massachusetts, he had vainly supposed himself a good American.

[illegible] COMING BOOKKEEPER.

Barnum's agent is in the city, and I learn that the enterprising managers of the Holliday-street Theatre, Baltimore, have concluded an engagement with her, to appear three three weeks from to-night. The same gentlemen are fitting up our "Varieties," for theatrical entertainments, to commence next Monday night, and will probably introduce the great Impalement to a Washington audience, one long. As I intimated to you, a few days since, the Museum, in the hands of Mr. JAENEY, is not likely to satisfy our theatre-goers, and the opening of the "Varieties" will be hailed with much satisfaction. AMERICAN STATE COUNCIL OF CONNECTICUT

Second Day's Proceedings and Adjournment.

Objects of the Organization.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Daily Times.

NEW-HAVEN, Wednesday, Nov. 14.

The continuation of the public meeting of the American Party, last night, from the time my report closed until the adjournment, was of the character generally denominated spicy. Long after the Connecticut hour of retiring, and after "Sam" had been served up in varieties to suit the tastes of the vulgar and the refined, Hon. D. N. SMITH, whom you would have published as Chairman of the meeting, instead of Hiram D. PECK, if the letter of the dispatch had been followed, discovered Hon. OLIN CHAPMAN, of Hartford, in the audience, and insisted upon his addressing the meeting. The old gentleman tried to escape, but the people would not let him, so up he mounted, and for nearly an hour endeavored to stop speaking, but couldn't, which delighted everybody. He began by treating of the great sympathy which the leading Democratic papers have, of late, been pouring into the ears of the straight Whigs, in a good-humored, sarcastic way, and concluded that portion of his subject by declaring it to be utter folly for any man to bring back to life, upon of the old issues on which the Whig party had so often gone into the [illegible]. Those issues would never [illegible], for they had been buried with their dead [illegible], and if ever they scratched to get out, instead of making any progress toward the surface, they would go in an opposite direction. He left the imagination to follow those issues while scratching their weary way to the regions below; and after the applause had ceased, passed to a statement of what he deemed the real positions of the parties of the present day, and concluded by assuring his hearers that the only living political issue was that offered by the American Party to all others who choose to array themselves against it.

He was followed by Hon. O. G. PECK, of Norwalk, the leader of the Order in the late State Legislature, who made a brief and earnest appeal to all members of the American Party, to remember that from the time at which he was addressing them until the first Monday in April next, it was incumbent upon them to work arduously for the continued triumph of the American idea.

The meeting would have been pleased to hear from Mr. BOOTH, also of Norwalk, but owing to the lateness of the hour he did not ascend the platform, and the meeting adjourned, under the soul-stirring influences of "Yankee Doodle."

The State Council met again this morning, and concluded their business before noon. After the general satisfaction with which the proceedings of the previous day were received at the Mass Meeting, they concluded they had but little more to do. So, on the conclusion of some routine and unimportant business, and after electing Mr. PRATT, of Meriden, Secretary of the State Council, they adjourned.

THE PROSPECTS OF THE PARTY.

As the American Party has now control of the State, and as it cannot be doubted that its prospects of success at the coming election, a brief statement of its particular objects may not be void of interest.

In common with members of the Order in many of the other States, the Americans of Connecticut are in favor of an extension of the time at which foreigners may become naturalized, to a period of twenty-one years. In common with others of their Order, they are in favor, to use their own phrase, of having "America ruled by Americans" only. They would have no Government office, whether Federal, State, county, city, town or village, held by other than a native-born American. Here their similarity to the American Party in most of the other States ends, and, in addition, the Order holds the sentiments which gave rise to the Republican Party, in your own State. They are opposed to the extension of slavery, and regard as a gross violation of national faith the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. And as this feeling is, perhaps, more general in this State than in yours, it is easy to understand that, by retaining it in their platform of principles, they gain or retain a large and warm sympathy, which otherwise would go to the support of some other of the political parties of the day. I may add here that it was in consequence of the close adherence of the Order to the Anti-Nebraska sentiment or principle, that the late attempt to establish a political organization, with that principle as a basis, failed entirely. You are aware, as I can assure you, the people of Connecticut are, that ISAAC TOUCEY represents this State in the Senate of the United States. You are also aware, and as I assure you are the people of Connecticut, that Hon. TOUCEY, in violation of the will of the people of Connecticut, as expressed to him through their Legislature, voted for the repeal of the Missouri Compromise and in favor of the Kansas-Nebraska bill. To pay him for his total disregard of the will of his constituents; to prevent his return to any position in which it would be in his power to misrepresent them again; will be the effort of the people of Connecticut, not only through the American organization, but in every other way in which they can oppose him with effect. To succeed will require caution, for when the Legislature shall meet to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of his term, it is threatened that the whole influence, though powerless of patronage and all the other means by which the present Administration seeks to sustain itself, will be used to return him to his seat.

MONOTOMOO.

American State Council of Massachusetts.

SPECIAL, Wednesday, Nov. 14.

The American State Council assembled at Worcester yesterday, Vice-President JAMES B. FAIR, [illegible] presiding. One hundred and eighty delegates were present.

The resignation of JOHN W. FOSTER, as President of the State Council, was read and accepted by a unanimous vote. The resignation of Lieutenant-Governor BROWN was also accepted. The question of electing delegates to the American Convention to be holden at Cincinnati on the 5th inst., opened the subject of Slavery and the ground to be taken by the Massachusetts Delegation. Several members were opposed to sending Delegates, at all, arguing that the proposed Convention was another attempt to subsidize the American Party into a Southern movement. Governor CLARKSON made a brief speech in favor of sending Delegates. The call, he said, was in accordance with the views of the Northern portion of the Philadelphia Convention, and was merely for consultation. Many other Northern States would be represented, and he thought Massachusetts should be.

Hon. E. C. BAKER, MARK TRAFTON, and many other, advocated sending delegates, and a motion to that effect was adopted.

HENRY J. GARDNER and HORAE W. BENEDICT were chosen Delegates at large; also one delegate from each Congressional District, with a substitute.

HENRY W. BENEDICT was unanimously elected President of the State Council; A. C. CAREY, of Ipswich, Vice-President; and GEO. W. MESSENGER, of Boston, Treasurer.

A motion was adopted declaring the seats of all those holding office vacant in the American Council, who had gone over to fusion.

New-Hampshire Democratic State Convention.

CONCORD, N. H., Wednesday, Nov. 14.

The Democratic State Convention met to-day. Hon. HENRY HUBBARD was chosen President. Hon. JAMES S. WILSON, of Exeter, was nominated for Governor, and a series of resolutions repudiating Know-Nothingism and the Maine Law, in favor of the principles of popular sovereignty, approving of the Administration policy in all its details, and recommending FRANKLIN PIERCE as the candidate of the Democracy for the next Presidency, were adopted with great unanimity. Nearly every town in the State was represented.

Missouri Legislature.

CHICAGO, Wednesday, Nov. 14.

In the Missouri Legislature, on the 12th inst., a motion to go into an election for United States Senator was defeated. Two Democratic caucuses had been held, and the Benton Democrats passed strong Anti-Know-Nothing resolutions.

The prospect of any election of a Senator taking place is still doubtful.

Louisiana Election.

NEW-ORLEANS, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

The latest election returns indicate that the Democratic majority on the State ticket will be about 8,000, and that the same party has carried both branches of the Legislature.

Later from Texas.

NEW-ORLEANS, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

We are in receipt of later dates from Texas. Governor PEASE had sent in his Message to the Legislature, and in it he justifies the proceedings of Capt. CARAHAN, but regrets the necessity of bringing Pedrosa Negros, and opposes further unauthorized expeditions into Mexico for the purpose of chastising the Indians.

Land of the State, Samuel Hodges.

[illegible] into French and Dry Goods and general merchandise received here to-day in the ship James Guthrie.

Telegraph Extension.

CHICAGO, Wednesday, Nov. 14.

The Illinois Central Telegraph Line was extended to Cairo on Saturday last, and that office is now ready for business for Cairo and all points on the line of road from Chicago and Dubuque to the mouth of the Ohio River.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

BALTIMORE, Wednesday, Nov. 14.

At a meeting, to-day, of the Board of Directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, CHAUNCEY BROOKS was elected President.

Markets by Telegraph.

NEW-ORLEANS, Tuesday, Nov. 13.

An active business has been done here to-day in Mess Pork at $19 ⅝ bbl. Sugar has advanced ¼c. ⅝ lb.

CHARLESTON, Wednesday, Nov. 14.

COTTON active and firm. The sales to-day foot up 2,000 bales.

NEW-YORK CITY.

The Court-Room where Judge Stuart's Trial is Proceeding.

All day yesterday the door of the room, wherein was proceeding the trial of Judge STUART, was besieged by a curious crowd. To gain admittance one must first get on the available side of a stalwart door-keeper; but if one could not plead his membership of that particular bar, or connection with the press, or some such privilege,—even that point carried, he must remain an outsider. The lucky man, however, was not at once admitted. The outer cerberus knocked, and an inner one, turning the lock, opened the door far enough to hear the petitioner's claim. Lucky, he was admitted; but woe to his friend who followed, expecting by the same token to reach within the room. We saw some fine heavers smashed between the door-sill and the inexorable door—which beavers were the property of very high dignitaries, and men of great consequence, in their own way.

But inside all was quiet and cool. The large room was crowded of course, and very many were obliged to stand. These naturally pressed as close to the bar as possible. This was tolerated complacently for a season, when the elegant attendant—he of the ringlets and moustache, and of Barnum's Museum,—would rush down, crunching peanuts as an ogre crushes babies, all the while, and wave them back to the wall. Then, disgusted, two or three would aim for the door, and as they make their exit receive the thanks of just as many rushing in to take their places. Meanwhile the trial was not intensely interesting, and whoever reads our report will get a better idea of what was done than he who sat half a day within the bar and listened with all attention.

Court of General Sessions Yesterday.

This Court yesterday presented a singular appearance. A large crowd of citizens, who were disappointed in gaining admission to the Court of Oyer and Terminer, owing to the excitement consequent upon the trial of Judge STUART, which caused such a throng to assemble within its walls that another person could not have been admitted without danger of suffocating, all the rest,—this large disappointed crowd overflowed into the Court of General Sessions, and one would have thought to have seen them that HAYMAN was about to be tried for the murder of POOLE, or that some other case of prodigious magnitude was coming up. No such thing. There was no City Judge—he was being tried in the next Court. There was no Recorder—he was on the stand as a witness against him. There was no District Attorney—he had been previously examined in the Oyer and Terminer, as a witness against the City Judge, and was busily watching the progress of the trial. Patiently waited the summoned Jurors; patiently the subpoenaed witnesses waited. Something would turn up when the Recorder had horsed the fire of Mr. BRADY's cross-examination. What did turn up did not pay the crowd for the patience they exhibited—a small burglary case, in which the evidence against the prisoner, a German, was insufficient, and resulted in his acquittal, and a charge of rape against another German, Constantine Miller, which was tried for the second time, the jury on the last trial failing to agree.

Heaven Bless and a Benevolent Visitor.

It is no uncommon thing for Santa Claus to ramble in Broadway on that glorious Eve. But when a horse or an ass, or any other animal, not excepting a man, falls so very peculiarly that his fore-quarters sweep off an obtuse angle with his body, it is hard work for him to recover his equilibrium, or his equilibrium, for a plated friend offered him a bank shilling to help up a beast of burden, who had to bear, in addition to his other sins, numerous tons from the laundry stand. He was blessed was a Washington-street of the benevolent gentleman that he did not make some one stand to estimate of all kinds, organization, and the harness, and so gave liberty to the beast, quiet to the brute that bore it, and discomfit the crowd. Let him always be around, for he does something more than gape and stare; he works and makes himself useful always.

The Late Mysterious Disappearance.

Rev. E. R. SCHWEBER, of No. [illegible] Greenwich-street, on account of whose [illegible] some ten days ago was given in the Tribune, has not yet been heard from, and his friends are [illegible] to be in the greatest anxiety and distress, and are fearful that something serious has befallen him. Mr. S. had been married only about a month. He is a German, and had been in this country but two years. He is a young man, not yet thirty, and received a superior education at a leading German University. He was very much respected by the congregation worshipping at No. 168 Fulton-street, over which he officiated as pastor. At the time he left home he had between $60 and $80 in his possession, besides a valuable gold watch.

Legal Gossip.

It is a matter of much question among the lawyers whether the testimony of Mrs. DEVAN, in the case of Judge STUART, should be received, she being tempted to give it by the promise of the District Attorney not to prosecute her husband if she did so, or rather by the threat of doing it in the contrary case. Mr. BRADY's argument on the subject is anxiously looked for.

The legal gentry are all very busy at present, and the indications are that they will long remain so.

Found! Found!

There never were so many babies lying around loose as now. One was found, without father or mother, at the South Ferry House, on Monday, and yesterday a dear little thing, about three months old, was found at the corner of Avenue A and Fifteenth-street. People should have their eyes open when they walk out, and those in want of an heir can't do better than to walk out often with their spectacles on.

The Commissioners of Emigration

Met yesterday, discussed the old Brandy question, and two of them got warm over the character of runners, but their proceedings were not of essential importance to the world or to U. E. A.

☞ The Board of Canvassers may as well call for crackers and cheese and a sofa. They are in for a long job. The Board, remembering their past experience, and how their decision once was reversed, are not disposed to go behind the Inspectors. But if it does not, we trust the proper authorities will step up to the delinquents of that board, and discover unto us whether or not under their auspicious auspices they are really honest men. Either overhaul the returns or those who were so slow in making them.

☞ The extraordinary vote that the Sheriff and County Clerk got [illegible] hands. Each had no more votes than all other candidates at the late election. [illegible] Inspectors.

☞ Has Clerk CONNOLLY been naturalized within a month or not? This is the question of the day. Enterprising reporters are haunting the naturalization offices to find out.

☞ The New-York and Savannah steamships will leave, on and after Saturday, 17th inst., at 3 o'clock P. M., instead of 4 o'clock P. M., until further notice.

BOARD OF COUNCILMEN.

Purity of the Elective Franchise.

The Board of Councilmen met last evening at the usual hour. The President, D. D. CONOVER, Esq., in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A petition of sundry persons for a stream fire-engine in the lower Districts, was referred. Also, a petition of Lemuel Macy, for permission to regulate One Hundred and Ninth-street, 600 feet east from the easterly line of the Second-avenue, at his own cost. This was referred to the appropriate Committee.

MENTION STRANGE—A NEW REGISTRY LAW.

At the last meeting of the Board, Councilman HOLDEN offered the following resolution, which was then laid over. Last night it was taken up and debated:

Resolved, That the representatives in the Legislature from this City and County of New-York, be requested to use every exertion to effect the passage of a judicious Registry law.

Considerable debate resulted on the consideration of this resolution. Among the principal speakers were Councilmen MATHER and BRYAN McCARTHY. The latter moved to lay it on the table, which motion was lost. Councilman MATHER urged that it should be referred to a Special Committee. This motion was lost.

Councilman CLARKE thought the motion was originated by malice. It sprung from a wish of some one in being reflected on the part of the mover and supporters of the resolution. All this cry about the necessity of a purity of election is confined to the mouths of those whose places in this Board, after January, will be filled by other men. This resolution proposed to compel citizens to register their votes in particular Wards long before election time, but what then would become of the floating population of the City whom the vicissitudes of labor would drive to other Wards, and whose votes would thus be lost? Is the great Immaculate who authors and fathers this resolution, prepared to say that this new registry law that he talks about could make our election system purer? On the contrary, it would open the door to greater abuses than now exist. The Hards and Softs, the Half-Shells, the old Whig Party, do not talk about Election Frauds. What Party, then, does talk about them? Only one Party—the American Party. The registry law is an obsolete idea, a twice-told tale, a jack-o'-lantern, a great magnifying glass that magnifies a bed-bug into an elephant. He would most strenuously oppose such a resolution. Such a law would be unjust, unnecessary and iniquitous in the extreme.

Councilman PERRY thought the trouble lay with the Inspectors of Elections, and not with the voters. Give us honest Inspectors, and we should have purity of election. He was in favor—now and forever—of any law that would give us an honest election, but, inasmuch as this resolution said nothing about Inspectors, he should vote against it.

Councilman BYRNES thought no good could come from a Registry Law, unless it was based on the Registry Law of Pennsylvania, which required that every person qualified to vote should pay his taxes before, or on the day of election. He was afraid that the framing of such a law, or the suggestion of what was necessary, would require more wisdom than the Board of Councilmen possessed.

Councilman BRYAN McCARTHY would oppose the resolution. We were a mass of contradiction now, for the more laws we made the more corrupt we got. There never was an election yet without fraud, and there never would be.

The vote on the resolution was then taken.

AYES, 26; NAYS, 20. The resolution was therefore adopted.

It was then moved that the names of those who voted for and against the resolution, should be sent to the Legislature with the resolution itself. Lost.

After some further business of no public importance, the Board adjourned.

THE DISMISSED OFFICIALS.

CASE OF JUDGE STUART.

Evidence for the Prosecution Continued.

Testimony of Mr. [illegible], Clerk of Sessions; of [illegible], Clerk; of [illegible], Deputy Clerk; and Mr. Adam J. Elder, the "Confidential Officer."

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

Before Hon. John Russell.

Wednesday, Nov. 14, 1855.

The trial of Judge Stuart was resumed to-day at the usual hour. The public attendance was hardly so great as on the previous day.

CROSS-EXAMINATION OF MR. VANDERVOORT.

Mr. Henry Vandervoort, Clerk of the Court of Sessions, was cross-examined at some length by Mr. James T. Brady. No new facts were elicited, and the gist of his cross-examination would appear to be limited to the statements that he was not entirely certain whether Judge Stuart or John Sparks showed him Mr. Hall's note first; his mind was about balanced on the point; his recollection was that Mr. Sparks left the Court room to look for the paper previous to the adjournment; he had a recollection that Judge Stuart said that the indictment which they were looking for, referred to the case of a hotel-thief, who might be indicted by an alias, and that he (witness) replied, "Yes, I know it never;" after the indictment against Cosgrove was found he had a recollection of the case, but he did not remember that Monnot's name was mentioned until after that indictment had been taken off the files; he did not then know that Cosgrove had an alias; Stuart, he presumed, saw him leave the office with the indictment, in order to go to the District Attorney with it, and have the order signed, as Mr. Hall had intimated in his note; he might have told Judge Stuart the purpose for which he brought away the indictment; after his return from the District Attorney's office, witness spoke to Judge S. of the discrepancy between the name in the note and that on the indictment the Judge wanted; but whether the Judge spoke of them as being the same person, he did not remember; witness certainly came to the conclusion himself that they were one and the same person.

CORROBORATIVE EVIDENCE OF JOHN SPARKS.

Mr. John Sparks, Deputy Clerk of the Court of Sessions, was the next witness examined. His testimony was nothing more than a narrative of his connection with the entering of the nolle prosequi concluding with that related by Mr. Cutting, in his opening statement, but given in minute detail. On his cross-examination by Mr. Brady, he testified that, when Mr. Vandervoort handed him the note written by Mr. Hall, the District Attorney, he asked him to go and get the papers—the indictment referred to, in it; witness went to the Clerk's Office, and had been absent from the Court-room fourteen five or ten minutes, when Mr. Vandervoort and Judge Stuart came in together; witness did not return to the Court-room that day, and it was during his absence that the Court adjourned; he could not say whether Judge Stuart took a seat in the Clerk's Office; thought the Judge spoke to him to make out the certified copy of the order; he did not tell witness to write fast, but walked like a gentleman until he (witness) had finished it; witness judged from his manner merely that he was in a hurry, and independent of his own opinion in the matter, had no fact to mention to the jury that would enable them to arrive at any conclusion on the point.

On being reexamined by Mr. Cutting, the witness said that the Judge did not explain what he wanted with the certified copy of the order; he never knew him (the Judge) to make any use of it in Court; and it was not the custom for Judges to get certified copies of such orders.

TESTIMONY OF THE RECORDER—HIS MEMORANDUM, QUESTIONS, SUGGESTIONS, EXCLAMATIONS, AND EXPLANATIONS.

Mr. Jas. M. Smith, the Recorder, was sent for to the Court of General Sessions, in which he was presiding; and sworn as a witness. He was examined as follows, by Mr. Cutting:

Q.—You are now, and since the 1st of January last have been, Recorder of this City and County? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—In April, 1855, you were a member of the bar, and practiced as a lawyer in this City? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—In that year did you know, or become acquainted with a person named William Cosgrove? A.—I was counsel for a man arrested by that name; the first time I ever saw him was in the Police Office at Jefferson Market.

Q.—With what offence was he charged? A.—With the offence of a burglary committed in the New-York Hotel.

Q.—Did you attend the examination in the Police Office? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—State whether Mr. Stuart was present, and if so, in what capacity? A.—Mr. Stuart was a Police Magistrate at that time.

Counsel—State what occurred in reference to bailing Mr. Cosgrove. (Objection made and exception taken.)

Witness—The bail was fixed in the case at $5,000 by Judge Stuart. It was subsequently reduced to $3,000.

Q.—Did Judge Stuart give any explanation or reason for fixing the bail at $5,000, and what did he say on that subject? (Objected to; objection overruled and exception taken.)

Witness—I do not know that I can state the exact language that passed between us upon that subject. There was a good deal of hesitation expressed on his part as to taking any bail, in consequence of the evidence that existed.

Q.—What evidence? (Objected to.)

Counsel—Give, according to your best memory, what Judge Stuart said? A.—My recollection of it is, that the evidence was so plain against the party that he (Judge S.) doubted the propriety of bailing him, it being a clear case against him from the evidence that was presented.

Q.—What was the next determination that the Judge expressed? A.—He then fixed it at $5,000; I think his expression was; "he would take good bail in the sum of $5,000;" I told him it was impossible for the party to get that amount of bail, as it was equivalent to having no bail fixed at all, because he could not obtain that amount. This is to the substance of all that I recollect of what occurred at that time. Afterwards Mr. Frinck, who subsequently became his bail, and myself went to Judge Stuart's house and there had an interview in reference to the bail; I am unable to state whether it was the same day, or the next, or some days after; and I do not recollect how long he remained in prison before bail was obtained; at all events, we saw Judge Stuart at his house; I do not recollect the conversation we had; the object of the interview I knew, was to get the bail reduced, and we did there get it reduced to $3,000. That interview, as my memory serves me, lasted but for a few minutes.

Q.—Did anything, and what, occur in the month of February, 1855, that led to your seeing Judge Stuart? If so, state what it was.

(Objected to, and question modified.)

Q.—State whether, in the month of February, 1855, you had any conversation with Judge Stuart in reference to the indictment against Cosgrove? A.—I did.

Q.—On what day in February? A.—I could answer that question if I could see the date of the entry of the nolle prosequi.

(Mr. Brady—It was the 19th of February.)

Witness—Yes; it was either on the 21st or 22d; my impression is that it was the 21st, but as to that I would not be positive.

Q.—State what occurred on that occasion. A.—In consequence of a communication that had been made to me by Mr. John S. Frinck, who had given bail in the case, I left my office to go to the Clerk's Office, Frinck remaining behind at my office. I started for the Clerk's office for the purpose of ascertaining whether any proceeding had been taken on the indictment; on the way I unexpectedly met Judge Stuart at the foot of the stairs, coming out of his office in the hall of this building; I told him that I had understood that proceedings had been taken to discharge Cosgrove on that indictment; he said that there had not, and that there would not be any. (To the Court—I am sure it was after the 19th that occurred.) When Judge Stuart had stated to me that nothing had been done in the case, I went back to my office and there made a communication to Mr. Frinck, and Frinck then left my office; next morning or the morning but one after that, Mr. Frinck came again to my office; in consequence of an interview which I had with him then, I went to the Clerk's office; I think Frinck then accompanied me, though I am not positive whether he went with me then or at the next time; from the Clerk's office I went to the District Attorney's office and had an interview with Mr. Hall; Mr. Hall and I together, if my memory serves me right, went immediately to the Clerk's Office and examined the papers in this case—or rather examined to see whether a nolle prosequi had been entered; my object principally was to ascertain the date of the entry of the order; I ascertained the date, for I had ascertained the fact of the order without seeing any papers; I went into the office first and asked the question there, and then went immediately to the District Attorney's Office; I had another interview with Judge Stuart within a very short time afterwards; I rather think Mr. Frinck and I went down together from the District Attorney's Office to Judge Stuart's office; I think I used some pretty strong language in reference to the entry of the nolle prosequi in the case; I do not think I could give the language; I may do so; I think I said I should have the matter investigated; that it should not rest there; that this man, Cosgrove, had been a client of mine, and that a nolle prosequi being entered immediately after my coming into office lay me liable to public censure; I cannot state what he said in reply; I was seated at the time; I cannot recollect any explanation that he made; I recollect my using one of the words I have repeated; there were other things said which I do not remember; the interview was a very heavy one indeed; I do not think I was in the office more than a minute or a minute and a half.

Mr. Vandervoort was here recalled by Mr. Brady, and admitted that he had seen Cosgrove, as a witness here, [illegible] for the affidavit in reference to the case of Cosgrove? A.—I have, but I [illegible] that I saw her in connection with this case, either at the office of the District Attorney or elsewhere, for the first time; and yet I might have done that before; I might be mistaken in that; I know at that time a man named Albert Tomlin; previous, I think, to the time of my connection with the case, there was a charge of my connection with the case, [illegible] on which I was indicted; but he never made any [illegible] that he was [illegible] I cannot say positively; I only know of the man professionally; I know nothing of his private character; several civil suits have since been brought into court in which he was a party; I think these in one of them, now pending in the Court of Common Pleas, and, if so, the relation of attorney and client still exists between me since the 1st of January; I have not had time to attend to private cases; an attorney in my office, named Mr. Gray, generally has charge of my private business; I should think that, in general, I attended all the papers in Cosgrove's case, and made myself familiar with the facts; I have no doubt of it, because I always do; Stuart was decidedly opposed to granting bail in his case; I think, I assume on the belief that, as was told by the District Attorney, bail to any amount might be refused in a perfectly clear case; I, as counsel, held a different opinion; I do not know that I ever discussed that or other cases at that time; I knew this woman as Mrs. Duval, until I was afterwards informed that she had been married to Connolly; I do not remember when I was so informed; my object, as Cosgrove's counsel, was first to get the bail in his case fixed; I thought $5,000 much too high; I endeavored to procure bail for him to that amount, and failed; I do not recollect that I wanted the Judge to lay the bail open until I had seen the District Attorney about it; I do not remember that I told the Judge the District-Attorney would consent to a reduction of bail; it is likely that I saw the District Attorney about it; I made very strenuous exertions in the matter; I do not remember that an application for a postponement was made, nor that a postponement was obtained on the affidavit of the prisoner that a witness was absent; I do not remember to have ever seen such an affidavit; I considered that my relation to Cosgrove as his counsel ceased when he ran off and forfeited his bail; he paid me the fee for attending at the preliminary examination, but the fee for preparing his bail he did not pay; he ran off, and I never saw him again; I think I told him I would charge him $100 for trying his case in the Court of Sessions; since that fee has not been paid, I suppose he is still my debtor; I never asked either Frinck or the woman for that fee; I certainly never asked Judge Stuart for it, though I understand he has said that I did; I deny most emphatically that I ever asked for it; and I deny that I ever said to him "I do not want to have anything done with that indictment against Cosgrove, till I get my fee;" I will state what I did say, which may have led to the assertion that I did say so.

Mr. Brady informed the witness that he did not ask him what he said, and did not want it till he did ask him.

The witness replied, that he would make the explanation when the counsel was through.

Counsel—Did you ever tell Stuart that Cosgrove owed you $100? A.—I did not; I will tell you by and by what may have led Stuart to think so; I never told him not to enter a nolle prosequi on that indictment, because I never spoke to him about it till after the nolle prosequi had been entered; on the 20th or 21st I knew, when I spoke to the District Attorney, that a nol. pros. had been entered on the minutes; I had been in the clerk's office before I saw Mr. Hall; I have never seen the minutes till this day; I think I asked Mr. Hall as to the date of entry of the nol. pros.; he did not pretend that he did not know the date of its entry; I can tell you the reason that made it necessary for the District Attorney and I to go into the clerk's office, if you allow me to relate the conversation between us.

Counsel refused to hear any such conversation on the ground of immaterriality. He asked the witness as to what Judge Stuart said when he (the Recorder) charged him with having got a nol. pros. in Cosgrove's case?

Witness replied—I do not remember his language; he was very much confused, indeed, when I went and charged him with this; I do not know that he said one word; I told him what I had ascertained and what he had told me; I was not angry; I had a different feeling entirely; it might have been ten days or a fortnight previous to the finding of this indictment against Stuart, that I first learned anything about its being in contemplation; I have no recollection of ever holding a conversation on the subject of Cosgrove's indictment with Judge Stuart down to that time; I saw him at the foot of the stairs; the relations between Judge Stuart and myself were very friendly; that he can testify to as well as I; I should think that this "Hal Burtis" was first spoken of as a messenger to Boston a day or two before he went there; I do not know who first suggested him; at the time Burtis was thus employed Frinck was a client of mine, and has been for seven or eight years; I did not procure Frinck to become bail for Cosgrove; a chattel mortgage, I believe, was given him by Mrs. Duval to become security; the goods—furniture—were worth, I believe, but a trifling amount; my only knowledge as to that was derived from the statement of Frinck; some passed between Mr. Frinck and Mrs. Connolly to the amount of $1,000, but Frinck, I think, gave her a note for it; I did not consider that money as a deposit; Mr. Hall, the District Attorney, came to the Recorder's office to see Mrs. Connolly, and either Burtis and Mrs. C. were there when he came, or they came in afterwards; there were no others present at our interview, but Burtis, the woman, Mr. Hall, and I; Mr. Hall gave a note to Mrs. Cosgrove to induce Cosgrove to come on here from Boston; an appointment had been previously made, I think, for that meeting in the Recorder's office; she had been seen in town that day; I think that within an hour after some one said, Mrs. Connolly had been seen in town she came into my office, she had been sent for; I think that after hearing the woman was in town an hour did not elapse until the arrangement for the interview in the Recorder's office had been made, and the meeting took place; I do not know who furnished Burtis with the money to go to Boston; I know I did not, and I never heard that any had been furnished. I knew of Burtis' return from Boston; I cannot tell when I next saw him; it was shortly after at my office; I believe I then sent him over to Mr. Hall to report the result of his mission to him; I think I saw the woman once after that; I am not positive that I have; I was once sent for to meet her, by Mr. Hall, but I could not go at that time; my impression is that I have not seen her since the interview I have mentioned; I do not think the bail for Cosgrove was taken in Stuart's house; I think the amount was settled there, but I do not believe I was present when bail was taken; my recollection is that the indictment had not been found when the bail was given; it is very likely that I saw the District Attorney to get the bail reduced; if the bail was given after indictment, I have no doubt that I did call on the District Attorney for the purpose of getting it reduced; I never told Frinck that I had obtained a promise from Judge Stuart not to enter a nolle prosequi till I had got the fee; I will explain that afterwards; I heard that Burtis and Cosgrove were acquainted, but I had no personal knowledge of it; when Madame Duval and Burtis met at my office, it was evident they were acquainted; I think that at the interview at which Mr. Hall and the woman were present Burtis said he knew where Connolly was; I do not know who procured Burtis to attend upon that occasion; he seemed to be there as an escort to the woman; I do not know that Officer Woolridge, who is a special officer attached to my Court, had brought him there; I had not heard at the time of this interview that Hal Burtis and two others, Fish and Edgar were charged with the commission of any crime; I had heard that Fish and Burtis were charged with some crime, the nature of which I do not know, and which had been committed, not in Boston, I think, though in the State of Massachusetts. I had heard that Fish and Mrs. Duval were acquainted, or connected, but I did not know that Fish was married to a sister of Mrs. Duval; I had been engaged by Fish about ten years ago to defend him in a criminal case, and about three years since was engaged in an action on a promissory note in which Fish and Brown were parties; I only know Fish as I know any man whom I have defended; I have no acquaintance with him privately.

On the reexamination by Mr. Cutting,

The witness explained what passed between himself and Judge Stuart, as he had said he would do, in order to show how Judge Stuart may have been led into certain mistakes in regard to what he did say. At the time, he said, of the interview that I had at the foot of the stairs with Judge Stuart, when he informed me that there had been nothing done with Cosgrove's case, and that there should be nothing done with it, I made (this remark to him: that he Cosgrove was not only a thief, but a thief of that kind that he would cheat his own counsel, and that he deserved no indulgence whatever. That is the substance of it. I also spoke of his having forfeited his bail.

The witness was asked a variety of other questions, but no further evidence was given by him which appeared to affect the case, pro or con.

EVIDENCE OF THE "CONFIDENTIAL OFFICER."—HIS MEMORANDUM—HIS RECOLLECTION.

Wm. A. Elder was called and sworn.

Mr. Stoughton objected to the introduction of this witness, because his evidence was meant to be corroborative of the testimony which was yet to be elicited from the principal witness.

The objection was overruled, and the matter being discretionary with the Judge, no exception was taken.

Mr. Cutting commenced with the examination. The leading points in the witness' testimony would seem to be confined to the following statements; I think I know Mrs. Connolly; I did not know her by that name until I was detailed to the Court of Sessions; I [illegible] Court of Sessions;

NEW-YORK LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Prepared expressly for the New-York Times by a careful and experienced Reporter.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, Nov. 14, 1866.

BEEF CATTLE.

These are chiefly sold at the WASHINGTON GROVE YARDS, 44TH-STREET, and at the NEW-YORK YARDS, Forty-fourth-street; BROWNING'S, on Sixth-street; CHAMBERLIN'S, on Robinson-street, and O'BRIEN'S, on Sixth-street. Our reports refer to these regular markets. Irregular sales are sometimes made at Bergen Hill, N. J., and from the Hudson River boats.

The great sales day at the Washington Yards is on WEDNESDAY of each week. The reports from all the yards are made up for the preceding week to the evening of that day.

Beeves are sold by the estimated dead weight of the four quarters; the so-called "fifth quarter" (hide and tallow) is not reckoned in here, as it is in Boston and some other cities. When Cattle are weighed live the dead weight is reckoned at 56 lbs. on each 100 lbs. of live weight; 44 lbs. being allowed for the "fifth quarter" and offal.

A large number of cattle are sold by Brokers, who attend to sales and advance the money, guaranteeing the collections which they afterwards make at such times as they may agree upon with the purchasers. The broker's charge for the above is now about $2 50 a head. Some pay the owners at once; others give a check payable in 30 days. These checks they frequently cash themselves, deducting about ½ a cent. interest.

The supply of cattle received at the regular yards for the week ending to-day is 4,059, against 4,940 the preceding week, being a decrease of 181 at the regular yards.

The average prices to-day, as compared with last week, are ½c.@¾c. higher. We quote:

PRICES OF FOURTEEN GRADES.

First quality, 9¾c.@10¼c. Extras, 11c.
Medium quality, 8½c.@9¼c.
Poor quality, 8c.@8½c.
Poorest quality, a few, at 7½c.
Usual selling price, 9c.
Average of sales about 9c.

At BROWNING'S, CHAMBERLIN'S and O'BRIEN'S, prices do not materially differ from those at Forty-fourth-street.

GENERAL REMARKS UPON THE BEEF MARKET.

We make the average sales No. 1 higher than last week, though giving best ¼c. to ½c. advance. Better weights were generally allowed by purchasers. Several sellers and buyers put the price on a par with last week; others estimate ½c. to ½c. advance, while others thought the market not quite as firm. These were probably all right. The best and the poorest beeves sold ½c. to ½c. higher; good cattle were about the same, while ordinary generally sold no better, and in some instances lower.

We saw no droves of extra quality, and few sealawags. Bones were in the ascendant, there being many large ones with prominent "points" not well covered. There is still a scarcity of tip-top droves.

The sales were quite brisk early in the day, but fell off at mid-day. There was a partial recovery towards evening, though a number of low sales were made.

The weather to-day, a cool Indian Summer, could scarcely have been better. Providence appears still to smile upon the sabbath-keeping change of the market day from Monday to Wednesday. Nearly every Monday of the present year has been stormy, while about 40 out of 45 Wednesdays have been pleasant. But we shall, doubtless, have stormy days soon, and ALLERTON is doing just the thing needed to make them comfortable, as he has commenced putting roofs over the yards. He says he shall cover the fifteen new yards this Fall, and probably the remaining twenty-seven next season. He would, doubtless, find it to pay to cover them all as soon as possible. Owners can well afford to give double package if this is done, for their cattle would look five dollars better on rainy days, and the pleasantness and comfort of the multitude compelled to visit Forty-fourth-street would be greatly promoted.

The drovers have very just cause of complaint against the railroads, in that they have raised their charges on cattle without giving previous notice. Several owners started from Kentucky and other parts of the West with money to pay the former freight charges, but, to their surprise, found these charges on single droves, from Cincinnati to this City, several hundred dollars higher than two or three months since. They had to pay to the managers of their stock, or to do not complain of your charges, you cannot consult your own interests in arranging them; but by an unusual circumstance any advance cannot be made in the Times, which very many of us depend upon for such information. If we know before-hand what we are to pay, we can calculate whether to stay or go, and also what we can pay for cattle on the road.

The present charge is one from Buffalo to Buffalo is $25 by the Erie Railroad, since the new rate. Buffalo, and New-York Central is also 25 cents less than the $5 days from Buffalo to Buffalo. Instead of these cattle come through to New-York, they are sold at Albany. This equalizes the advantage of the two routes, as formerly drovers preferred to come by Albany and take the chance of a good market.

The following sales of Beeves are reported by the railroads with which we contract for the transportation of cattle and drovers on the lines, and may be relied upon as correct. We aim to make the Times a complete record of cattle transportation, and any information tending this branch of business, if published in the Times, will reach the great mass of stock owners.

It may not be generally known, that thousands of cattle are yearly purchased in Western New-York—in Cattaraugus, Chautauqua and other counties—and driven to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, where they are grazed and fed from three to twelve months, when a part are sold in Philadelphia, and a part brought to this City. The distance across the country is about 400 miles, and the whole task of driving about $9 per head. A single firm, Overfield & ALLEN, have taken full 600 cattle over this route during the past six weeks.

For further information upon quality, health, status of trade, &c., see the following table giving the names of the owners and sellers of the principal droves. These tables and the notes following are carefully gathered from a personal inspection of each of the droves mentioned. Occasionally droves are omitted for want of time, or room, or because the owners or sellers do not chance to be in the yards at the time of our visit.

Sold from the New-York Yards, on the south side of Forty-fourth-street.

Yard No. 1—WOODRUFF owner, MEAD & HOLCOMB salesman; good Beeves, 650 to 700 lbs., average 675 lbs., and selling at 8½c.@10c. The same sellers disposed of 50 Westchester County, (N. Y.,) cattle, at 9½@10c. each, estimated at 8c.@10c.

No. 2—JNO. T. ALEXANDER owner, ULLERY salesman; gathered in Morgan County; fair to medium quality; selling at 8½c.@10c.; average 8c.

No. 3—J. T. WARE owner, TOD salesman; gathered in Boyle County, Ky.; medium quality; selling at 9½c.@9¾c. Fifty-five of this lot weighed 1,500 lbs. each, or one and a half to two averaged 1,400 lbs. Put on cars at Cynthiana, and sold at $12 9 car to Cincinnati, and $100 9 car to Buffalo.

No. 4—G. W. REID owner, HARVEY REYNOLDS salesman; common cattle from Sangamon County, Ill.; selling at 8½c.@9c., some of the best at 9½c.

No. 5—L. & H. BEERS owners and sellers; gathered in Newtown, Fairfield County, Conn.; heavy oxen in medium flesh; selling at 8½c.@9½c.

No. 6—A. MILLSTONE owner, J. GILMORE salesman; very good Beeves; selling at 9c.@10c.

No. 7—A very fair lot from Genesee County; bought in Albany by Bowman and Westbrook, owners and sellers; 600 to 650 lbs.; selling at 9½c.

No. 12—VAN WYCK & SHACK owners, PHILLIPS & SMITH salesmen; large cattle from Dutchess County, not very fat generally, 500 to 850 lbs., average full 750 lbs.; selling at 9c.@10c.

No. 14—CROWLEY & ALLEN owners and sellers; gathered in Cattaraugus County, N. Y.; quite even in weight at 825 lbs., and superior in quality to the generality of droves sent here from that region.

No. 15—J. W. CRAMER owner, D. SAYRE salesman; a mixed lot gathered in Tippecanoe County, Ill.; average weight 800 lbs.

No. 16—Two lots, BILLS and HOWARD owners, GEO. ARMSTRONG salesman; very nice steers, of medium size and in excellent flesh. Such animals make fine eating, and few sold higher in the market. ARMSTRONG might well consider that the market had gone up 1c., to-day.

No. 17—GOFF & CUNNINGHAM owners, J. A. MERRITT salesman; ordinary fair Beeves from Clarke County, Ind.; selling at 9c.@9½c. They were driven 100 miles to Cincinnati; thence by cars to Buffalo, at $100 9 car; and to New-York by N. Y. Central R. R., at $95 9 car. Whole cost from home, $15, and about $6 more for commissions, yard, &c., makes them stand the owner in $18 each, above the home cost.

No. 18—WM. HAYES, owner, T. WHEELER, salesman; a superior quality, such as Mr. HAYES usually sends here. They were fed by THOS. LEMENEY, in Fayette County; weight at home, 1,500 lbs.; generally even, though varying from 650 to 900 lbs.; selling at 10c.

No. 19—McCOLLUM & Co., from Fayette County, owners and feeders, S. SUMMAN, salesman; in fair flesh; small, average live weight at home, 1,198 lbs.; commenced selling at 9c.@10c., though they probably closed very high.

No. 20—Rather mixed quality; selling at 8c.@10c.

No. 21—HENRY FAHS, owner and feeder, D. L. BARNES, salesman; 950 to 750 lbs.; medium quality, though in fair flesh; first 30 sold at 9c.@10c.

No. 22—W. W. HOAG owner and salesman; medium quality, gathered in Dutchess County; all sold at 9c.@10c.

No. 23—J. C. HOAG owner and salesman; mixed quality, with a number of very superior Beeves, gathered in Dutchess County. One pair sold to LAZOS, of Centre Market, at $220, estimated at a trifle over 10c. HAYES, of Fulton Market, took 1 at $100 each, estimated at about 10c.

No. 77—CHRISTOPHER & Co. owners, J. E. WILLIAMS salesman; very good Bullocks, from Madison County, Ohio; 400 to 600 lbs.; average 700 lbs.; selling at 9c.@10c.

No. 29—W. T. OWENS owner, W. H. GUNSEY salesman; fed by E. W. Gwinn, of Franklin County; 800 to 750 lbs.; average 650; first half were sold at full 9½c.

No. 9 (a part in 10)—J. H. MOORE owner, CULVER, HURD & Co. salesman; fed by JAMES JONES, of Fayette County, Ohio; mixed quality, with a number of superior Bullocks; 600 to 1,200 lbs.; average live weight at home, 1,500 lbs.; selling at 9½c.@10c.

MILCH COWS AND CALVES.

These are sold at each of the above yards. The prices of Cows vary according to the fancy of the buyer, rather than with the real milking value. A nice animal, with a calf by her side, will bring from $65 to $80 or more. The prices the past week have been: Ordinary, $30@$40; Good, $40@$50; Extras, $60@$70.

At ALLERTON'S Veals are reported at 5c.@5½c. Stock very indifferent. Good Calves would sell well, if on hand.

BROWNING reports Veals at 5½c.@6½c., extras 7c.; very good demand.

CHAMBERLIN reports Veals at 5½c.@6½c.; extras, 7c.

O'BRIEN reports Veals, all extra quality, sold at 6½c.@7½c.; one calf at 7½c.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

These are chiefly sold at ALLERTON'S, BROWNING'S and CHAMBERLIN'S, at so much ⅌ head for a particular lot of Sheep or Lambs, as of the two other. They are also frequently sold by live weight, as this is mostly unexplored.

Receipts of the past week:

At Allerton's.....1,925 At Chamberlin's.....7,500
At Browning's.....5,769
Total this week.....15,194
Total last week.....14,367
Increase this week.....827

The demand for Sheep is still unsupplied, and prices are firm.

At ALLERTON'S Sheep and Lambs are reported in a little better demand. Stock left over last week. Prices of Sheep advanced fully 50c. ⅌ head. Lambs about the same as last week.

At BROWNING'S Sheep and Lambs are reported in excellent demand. On Saturday evening every animal was cleared out. About 1,500 on hand this morning, including about 300 just reported above. Quality only middling, mostly from New-York and New-Jersey.

H. G. KEAY, Clerk at CHAMBERLIN'S, reports prices unchanged from last week.

The following sales of Sheep and Lambs are reported by JAMES MOORE, Sheep Broker, at Brownings':

2,300 Sheep and Lambs at $2 50 to $6.

The following sales of Sheep and Lambs are reported by JAMES M'CARTY, Sheep Broker, at Brownings':

[illegible]

They are sold at so much ⅌ lb. gross or live weight, or so much ⅌ head. Reported sales at Allerton's, Forty-fourth-street, and at JAMES DONNAN'S Union Drove Yards, foot of East Thirty-fourth-street.

Receipts at Allerton's—By Erie Railroad, 600; by Hudson River Railroad, 1,000; by Harlem Railroad, 400; by Hudson River boats, 91; by Harlem Railroad in Pound, 3,200.

ALLERTON reports good Swine, 6¼c.@7c., gross weight.

HORSE MARKET.

Horses are sold all over the City, but the principal sales and exchange stables are located on Twenty-fourth-street, between Second and Fourth avenues. At these stables horses are sold on commission, or are purchased by the stable-keepers and sold on their own account. Generally, however, they are sold by drovers who bring their horses here from the country, and stable them at an expense of 25 cents per day, until sold. The sales below are not a tithe of all sold in the City; but being leading sales stables, they are quoted as a general indication of the market.

DANIEL MCCARTHY, Rose Hill stables, Nos. 96 to 116 Twenty-fourth-street, has on hand 70 Horses, with sales for the week of 17.

At CHAMBERLIN & Co.'s, No. 71 Twenty-fourth-street, 60 on hand and sales during the week.

NELSON FORD, National Stables, No. 52 Twenty-fourth-street, 60 on hand and sales during the week.

Sales during the week, 80. Market for work horses improved. A trotting horse at these stables owned by CHAS. B. LONGSTREET, of Chautauqua County, sold for $850.

BROWN & SMITH, No. 150 Twenty-fourth-street, report on hand 27; sales and exchanges during the week, 12.

Weekly Review of the Dry Goods Trade.

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, Nov. 14, 1866.

The Dry Goods business of the past week has been of so tame and uniform a character as to present no features calling for a general notice. The transactions have been quite limited, while there have shown a growing aspiration to sell—thereby contributing to the previously mentioned weakness and irregularity in prices, so that nearly all descriptions of goods can now be had on decidedly easier terms than at an earlier period in the season. This, however, seems to possess no attraction for buyers—these refraining from purchasing beyond the limit of their immediate necessities, as they are reluctant to speculate, in view of a future of unusual uncertainty.

Brown and bleached sheetings and shirtings are becoming plentiful, and, as the demand is limited, prices are tending downwards. Small sales of Cotton Flannels, Denims, and Drills, are being effected, at about former rates—but large lots would hardly command a sale. Duck is abundant, but is in fair request, at steady figures. Ginghams, Lawns, and Mankins remain as last noticed. Osnaburgs are mostly held above the views of purchasers, and are inactive. Printing Cloths are sparingly inquired for, and are somewhat infirm. Prints are dull and drooping, in the absence of any thing like an active demand. Satins and Ticks rule quiet and languid.

Woolens are in very limited request, and are heavy in price. We have heard of only a light business in Blankets, Cassimeres, Cloths, Doeskins and Flannels, at rates rather easier for the purchaser. Jeans and Linsey are scarcely noticed, while being pretty freely offered at about previous figures. Muslin de laines seem in slack demand, but are held with more firmness than almost any other kind of woolen fabrics. Satinets are partially neglected, and are on the decline. Slight concessions in prices of the principal styles of Shawls keep these in some favor with buyers. Tweeds are dull and heavy, as before quoted.

Foreign productions are also inactive and depressed, with scarcely enough selling to make a market, though the movements are sufficient to show the great weakness of prices. Factors are eager to clear off their surplus stocks, but are unable to do so unless at rates which they generally regard as being too low. Hence, there is but little progress made in distributing old stock, while the imports of fresh goods are tolerably large, and rendering the position of factors uncomfortable, while helping to turn the market still more in favor of buyers.

Markets—Carefully Reported for N. Y. Daily Times.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 14, 6 P. M.

ASHES—Are salable and steady at $7 87½ for Pearls, and $6 50 for Pots. ⅌ 100 lbs.

BRICKS—The demand is moderate, and prices are unchanged.

CANDLES—Remain as last noticed.

COAL—Is likewise unaltered.

COFFEE—Is less active, but rules firm, with sales since our last of only 800 packages Java at 18¼c.@14¼c.; 50 bags Maracaibo at 11¾c.; and 900 Rio at 9¾c.@11c. ⅌ lb.

COPPER—Is rather more sought after, and now brings 38c.@38c. for new Sheathing; 36c. for Yellow do., 34½c.@35½c. for Old do.; 36c. for Bolts and Brazers; 35c.@36c. for American Ingot; and 35c. for Chili Fig, ⅌ lb.

COTTON—In the absence of the steamer's news, the demand is without vigor at prices within our range, to which factors stiffly adhere. The week's sales amount to about 6,000 bales.

NEW-YORK CLASSIFICATION.

	Uplnd	Florda.	Mobile.	N.O.&Texas.
Middling	9¾	9¾	9¾	9¾
Middling Fair	9¾	9¾	10¼	10¼
Fair	10	10	10¾	11

FEATHERS—Are rare and needed at full rates.

FISH—Dry Cod are in light supply, though rather quiet, they appear firm at $3 50@$3 87½ ⅌ cwt. Large Mackerel are less inquired for and are easily obtained to more than the extent of the wants of buyers, at $20 for No. 1, $18 50 for No. 2, and $7 50@$7 75 for No. 3, ⅌ bbl. We have nothing new to notice in Small Mackerel, pickled Salmon, or in Shad. Pickled Herring are retailing, mostly at $5 10@$5 37½ ⅌ bbl. A limited inquiry prevails for Smoked Herring at 50c.@67½c. for Scaled, and 25c.@27½c. for No. 1, ⅌ box. The pressure in the Money market injuriously affects the trade in all kinds of Fish.

FLOUR AND MEAL—State and Western brands continue in fair request for home use, and moderate demand for export at essentially unchanged rates. The receipts are not very heavy, and receivers evince more confidence. Speculators are not so active. The sales since our last embrace about 16,000 bbls. here and to arrive soon; mostly at rates within the annexed range:

Ordinary State	$6 75@$6 81½
Straight State	6 81½@ 6 87½
Favorite and Extra State	6 87½@ 7 00
Mixed Western	6 75@ 6 81½
Common to good Indiana and Mich.	6 81½@ 7 00
Fancy Michigan	6 00@ 6 12½
Common to Good Ohio	6 87½@ 7 12½
Fancy Ohio	7 12½@ 7 25
Extra Ohio	7 25@ 10 25
Extra Indiana and Michigan	7 12½@10 00
Fancy Genesee	9 12½@ 9 37½
Extra Genesee	9 50@11 25

Canadian is dull and heavy, with sales of only 700 bbls. superfine to best extra at $6@$10 25 ⅌ bbl. Southern remains quiet, but is otherwise unaltered, the transactions since our last including only 1,000 bbls. mixed to fancy and extra at $9 37½@$11 25 ⅌ bbl. Rye Flour is selling in a small way at $5 25@$7 50 for fine and superfine ⅌ bbl. Corn Meal is in slack request and now worth but $4 10@$4 20 for Brandywine, ⅌ bbl.

FRUIT—The market presents no new feature worth noticing.

GRAIN—Wheat is less freely offered and with a slightly improved demand, prices have acquired greater firmness and buoyancy. The sales since our last amount to about 38,000 bushels, including Canadian White at $2 25; Western White (nominally) at $2 10@$2 20; do. Red, part at $2 05@$2 08; Southern White (nominally) at $2 00@$2 20, and do. Red part at $2@$2 10—the latter rate for a choice lot—⅌ bushel. Rye is salable and firm. 10,500 bushels brought $1 10@$1 20 for inferior to prime, ⅌ bushel. Barley is more abundant and is much cheaper. The sales since our last include 7,000 bushels at from $1 12@$1 20, the latter rate, with shortness, ⅌ bushel. Oats remain in light supply and moderate demand at 80c.@82c. for Western, and 85c.@86c. for State, ⅌ bushel. Beans and Peas are without any important change. Corn is in good demand at strengthening rates, with rather less offering, especially of desirable parcels. The sales since our last comprise about 150,000 bushels Western Mixed, in store, afloat, and delivered, at from 84c.@84½c. ⅌ bushel.

HAY—About 600 bales River have been sold on Mr. @75c. for shipment, and 87½c.@$1 for local use ⅌ 100 lbs.

HEMP—There is still much firmness, but no quotation, as this branch is quiet.

HIDES—Continue scarce, and being held above the views of buyers, are very quiet.

HOPS—Are not in very active demand, but are still in very active demand, and can be had at 35c.@45c. ⅌ lb. Old.

IRON—Scotch Pig is dull and heavily offered, and is nominal at $35 ⅌ ton. Other kinds are without material change.

LATHS—Eastern are less abundant, and are still worth $1 50 ⅌ thousand, with a moderate inquiry thereat.

LEATHER—Domestic tanned sole is not so active.

[illegible]

MOLASSES—Is in fair request, and is steady in price.

NAILS—Sell pretty freely at full rates.

NAVAL STORES—Rosin, Tar, and Crude Turpentine are about the same. Spirits Turpentine is in slack demand at 60c.@65c. ⅌ gall. [illegible] prices to meet factors.

OIL CAKE—The usual quiting is quoted at $[illegible] ⅌ ton, with a light stock and demand.

OILS—Whale, Sperm, and Olive remain as before reported. Linseed is selling only in small lots at 90c.@$1. ⅌ gallon. The supply is on the increase. Castor Oil is unchanged in value and is steady.

NEW-ORLEANS, OIL MARKET, Nov. 12.—(Per the week.)—Sperm.—An unusual activity has sprung up since our last, and prices have ruled higher, and advanced 5c.@10c. ⅌ gallon since the close of the market closing very firm, with an upward tendency. In Fairhaven we notice sales of 400 bbls. at $1 75, and 2,100 do. at $1 70 ⅌ gallon. A part of the oil purchased in this market and Fairhaven is understood for export to Europe.

WHALE—Remains quiet, the only transaction we know of is a sale of 250 bbls. at 41c.

WHALEBONE—Has been in small demand, and some of 25,000 lbs. Ochotsk made at 52c. Also 15,000 do. Arctic at 52c. In Fairhaven 15,000 lbs. Ochotsk at 50c.

Imports of Sperm and Whale Oil and Whalebone into the United States, for the week ending Nov. 13, 1866:

	Wh. Oil.	Wh. Wh.	Sp. Oil.
Previously	4,000	101,270	2,000,700
From Jan. 1 to date	54,000	451,570	3,257,700
Same time last year	10,000	312,500	3,434,500

PROVISIONS—Pork is still in the [illegible] and firm, with sales since our last of 650 bbls. at $28 50 @$28 62½ for Mess; 450 10@$31 25 for Prime Mess; and $21@$21 25 for Prime, ⅌ bbl. For shipment to France, we have heard of sales, within a few days, of about 1,000 bbls. Prime Mess and Prime, on private terms. Dressed Hogs are unalloyed. Cut Meats are steady and quiet, but firm. Lard is salable and buoyant, the transactions consisting of 350 bbls. and tcs. at 13c.@13¾c. ⅌ lb. Beef continues plenty and heavy. The sales since our last include 400 bbls. at from $9 50@$7 50 for Country Prime; $12@$12 50 for do. Mess; $16 75@$18 for Vermont Mess; $15 50@$16 for repacked do., ⅌ bbl. Prime Mess Beef is dull and heavy with small sales of old and new, at from $20 @$22 ⅌ tc. Beef Hams are quiet and nominal, at $15@$17. Butter is in fair request and steady, at 16c.@18c. for Ohio; 21c.@26c. for common to very good State, and 28c.@30c. for prime and extra, ⅌ lb. Cheese is selling moderately, at 9½c.@11c. ⅌ lb.

RICE—Is dull and heavy, with an increasing supply, and sales for the day of only 125 tcs. at 8c.@8c. 7½ ⅌ 100 lbs.

SALT—There is some disagreement about prices, which obstructs business. The sales since our last have been light at about former figures.

SEEDS—Are tasteless at old quotations.

SOAP—About 150 boxes Castile were taken at previous rates.

SPICES—Are essentially unaltered in demand and value.

SUGARS—Light stocks and a good supply give factors the upper hand. Prices are very firm and showing steady advance of about ½c. ⅌ lb. over those current a week ago. The sales since our last embrace about 450 hhds. Cuba, &c. at 8c.@9c. according to quality, ⅌ lb. Refined sugars are attracting more attention at steady and rather strengthening rates.

TALLOW—Prime is quoted at 19½c.@19¾c. ⅌ lb. with light sales.

TEAS—The demand is rather limited, but prices are firm. We quote:

Gunpowder and Imperial—Common to fine, ⅌ lb.	80c.@$1
Young Hyson, common, 37c.@50c.; Twankay, good and fine, 75c.@$1
Fine Young Hyson and Young Hyson kinds—Cargo to superior, 45c.@75c.; fine, 84c.@90c.; extra fine, 95c.@$1; curious, 50c.@65c.
Japan—Twankay kinds, 32c.@37c.; cargo to superior, 35c.@38c.; fine, 84c.@90c.; extra fine, 95c.@$1; curious, 32c.@40c.
Young Hyson—Canton made, 12c.@30c.; common cargo, 16c.@25c.; sweet and superior, 30c.@35c.; fine, 36c.@45c.; extra fine, 45c.@50c.; curious, 27c.@30c.
Hyson Skin and Twankay—Spurious kinds, 6c.@8c.; common cargo, 10c.@12c.; sweet and superior, 15c.@18c.; fine, 20c.@25c.; extra fine and Hyson kinds, 27c.@30c.
BLACK.
Amoy Souchong, 17c.@22c.
Congou and Souchong—Common, 12c.@14c.; good and fine, 22c.@25c.; extra fine, 27c.@30c.; choice, 35c.@40c.
Colong—Common old and new, 20c.@25c.; superior old and new, 30c.@31c.; fine old and new, 35c.@36c.; extra fine old and new, 38c.@39c.; curious old and new, 50c.@56c.
Pouchong, Singapore, 18c.@19c.
Caisten—Common, 21c.@25c.; good and fine, 24c.@ 28c.

A public sale is announced for Friday. But little business is likely to be transacted privately, until it shall have taken place.

TIN—Is dull and heavy, at rates within our range; Banca, 39½c. ⅌ lb., cash; Straits, 39c., cash; Plates, ¼d. X $10 50 ⅌ box; Plates, I. C. Coke, $9; Terne, Coke, $8 62½; Terne, Charcoal, $10.

TOBACCO—Crude is quiet, but steady. A fair inquiry prevails for manufactured kinds within our range; No. 1, 5's and 8's, 12c.@20c.; Medium, 5's and 8's, 14c.@16c.; Common, 5's and 8's, 10c.@12c.; Common to good 16's, 10c.@12½c.; Twist in kegs, med. No. 1, 18c.@20c.; Twist in kegs, common, 15c.@16c.; Pounds, extra fine, 26c.@40c.; Pounds, No. 1, 16c.@20c.; Pounds, medium, 14c.@16c.; Pounds, common, 10c.@12c.; Pounds, 5's, 8c.@10c.; Lactic Twist, 16c.@18c. ⅌ lb.

WHALEBONE—Is scarce and stiffly held at 56c. @57c. for Arctic; 51c.@52c. for Ochotsk; and 45c.@ 46c. for South Sea, ⅌ lb. The demand is not very active.

WHISKEY—There were 310 bbls. Jersey, Ohio and Prison bought at from 40c.@46c. ⅌ gallon—closing heavily and languidly.

WOOL—The stringency in the Money market has exerted an injurious influence upon this branch of business. Manufacturers have evinced very little inclination to purchase at present asking rates—in view of the extreme heaviness, and longer in Woolen goods; while dealers have refrained from buying any way freely, anticipating an easier market. Under these circumstances, prices have slightly receded, but the downward tendency has been partially checked, as a decline of not more than 1c.@1½c. ⅌ lb. on domestic, and 1c. ⅌ lb. on foreign Wools—from the rates current for both kinds a week ago; factors generally refuse to make any further concessions. The sales since our last are estimated at only about 150,000 lbs. of all descriptions, at the reduction in prices, above mentioned. More would, doubtless, have been disposed of, but for the early announcement of an auction sale of over 200,000 lbs. domestic fleece; 50,000 lbs. do. pulled, and sundry small lots of South American Wools, for to-morrow, (Thursday,) the 15th inst. It is apprehended that this sale will contribute to the establishment of prices of fleece Wools, for the second half of the month.

FREIGHTS—Remained about the same, with rather limited engagements at previous languid rates. The latest charters have been a ship from New-Orleans to Liverpool, Cotton, ¾d. or if to Havre, 1¼c.; a bark hence to Liverpool, about 3,000 bbls. Tar, 4s.; one, 200 tons, from Sicily to New-York, $1,400; a brig (3,800 bbls.) same voyage, $3,000; a ship hence to a port in the North Sea, Cotton, 1c., and Heavy Goods, 50c.; a bark to West Coast for orders, from a port in Honduras to New-York, Mahogany, $12, and Log wood, $6; one, 300 tons, to Cienfuegos and back, $2,100; a brig same voyage, do. for Sugar, and $6 for Molasses, on deck; a schooner from Mazatlan to New-York, Mahogany, $12; a schooner from Wilmington to Port-au-Prince, Lumber, $12, and back to New-York, Logwood, $5; a trip, 300 tons, hence to South Side Cuba and back, $2,250; a schooner, 150 tons, from a port in Maine to North Side Cuba, and back to New-York, $1,600; one, 160 tons, to Windward West India Island, $900; one from Bahama to New-York, Salt, 10c.; one from Ragged Island to New-Orleans, Salt, 12c., and one to Cienfuegos, Lumber, &c., on private terms.

The New-York Albion.

From the Washington Union, Nov. 14.

This foreign journal continues its vituperation of the official acts of Mr. Justice KEAR and of the Attorney General of the United States. In so doing, it is guilty of impertinent interference with the administration of criminal justice in this country, and the longer it perseveres in the same course the more it will embitter whatever there is among us of resentment and of prejudice against the recent acts of the British Government, and will, at the same time, serve rather than injure the American functionaries whom it assails. It may, by slander of the courts and law officers of the United States, to create a diversion in favor of the British officers who have violated our law; but it will find itself mistaken. We cannot condescend to argue with it the question how the business of our courts shall be conducted, and whether our judges and prosecuting officers do or do not proceed in a manner satisfactory to the British journal, even although their criminals be Englishmen and official agents of their Government.

The Albion intends, also, that we shall disclose the character and conduct of the Russian Minister to the Union, and to which, all we now say is, that we shall discover that he has organized a system of [illegible] in the United States, he has done any other act unworthy of his official position, nay, we invite the Albion, instead of persisting in vague vituperation of the Russian Minister, and its general charges against him, too ridiculous and childish to be [illegible] to specify one act of his, to give perpetrator one which shall be [illegible] before the District Court of New-York or Philadelphia. Mr. MASON and each inquiries to him the moral responsibility of that which Mr. Chatfield has done, as the Albion admits, and which, as the Albion also impliedly admits, would otherwise constitute an aggression on

[illegible]

[illegible] from intelligent and reliable correspondents to the same effect. Our special dispatch, published in another column, is explicit and reliable on this subject. We are confident that while Gen. MANOY controls the disposition of our foreign affairs, nothing will be done, or permitted, that shall really interfere with the preservation of peaceful relations.

Specie Payments and the War.

The apprehension of a general suspension of specie payments, in consequence of the war, though hardly justified by any steps as yet taken in that direction, is not wholly without foundation. It is the natural tendency of a war, carried on in a distant country, to produce that result;—and the mode in which it operates to that end is easy of explanation. It commences in specie-paying times; that is, when banks, or the government, can supply all holders of their obligations who want hard money instead of paper securities. The troops embark, arrive, fight. Enormous expenditures follow, and consumptions of provisions, tools, equipments, warlike stores, &c. For large portions of these, specie is paid outside of the warring nation, viz: for payment of troops, hiring foreign transports, buying provisions and stores abroad. The specie thus expended is in a great measure hoarded, or, at best, handed over to foreigners.

Accordingly, after a longer or shorter duration of the war, the amount of specie in the fighting country becomes reduced below its proper proportion to the amount of paper in circulation. And this results by an operation as sure as the caustic action of a fire, in a suspension of specie payments, for the very plain reason that the specie is gone; and what is not in hand cannot be paid out. Of the French and English specie and bullion, an enormous portion is now actually in Turkey, Asia, Southern Russia, Southern Europe, and with American ship owners in the adjacent waters; which is a very sufficient reason why it cannot be paid out for notes over the counters of the Bank of France and the Bank of England. A very large further portion has gone into the hands of operatives and farmers at home, who hold on to it and keep it out of the regular business circulation.

Now, when this depleting process has gone on as long as the moneyed men and institutions can endure it, a suspension of specie payments will surely come. In proportion to the wealth of a country it will come quickly. In our own country, the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812, both produced it. Another war, if long enough, would produce it, but not so soon, because we are richer. And it is as sure as sunrise, that at some time, England and France must be placed in the same predicament, namely: when their actual stock of specie, and what more they can borrow, shall have been exhausted.

Now, the notice which we need to take of the forethrown shadow of this coming event is this, viz., to remember that it will be preceded by the close collection from this country of all debts due the belligerent States, for their conversion into specie to carry on those wars; and to prepare ourselves for this demand. In other words, it now behooves all prudent Americans—capitalists, merchants or whoever they be—so to adjust their expenditures to their incomes, that a material diminution of the specie basis on this side the Atlantic may not force them to accompany their transatlantic fellow-traders into liquidation or bankruptcy. There is too much truth in Mr. CHAMPION's bitter and sneering fling, that "The whole United States trembled at the downfall of one mercantile house in Liverpool." It would be a very poor spectacle if the great nation of North America should not only tremble, but "smash," not at the downfall of nations three thousand miles away, but even at their embarrassment. Caution in speculation and expenditure, contraction of all operations depending upon payments far in the future, at least until after the present Winter, is the clear duty of every man in this country. When peace shall have been either negotiated or conquered, it may be safe to expand—and expend—again; but not at present.

It remains for each one to consider what action to take in the case of his tailor, or her milliner; of his much desired new city lot, or new stock investment; of her new shawl, or her "so lovely" lace, or cloak, or fur. Next Spring it may well appear that an economical Winter would have saved a bankruptcy,—that a temporary contraction has secured years of future prosperity.

A Discovery in Theology.

Captain JOHN RODGERS, sailing about the Arctic seas in the corvette Vincennes, has made some highly interesting explorations. He has brought to light, among other curiosities, a tribe of natives—or Indians, as the statement before us gives it, although the name applies only indifferently to the northern Asiatic—who live in sublime independence of Russian rule, notwithstanding geography locates them within the boundaries of that empire; enjoy a condition of semi-civilization, illustrated chiefly in a regard for property, and respect for its rights; practice an astonishingly elevated code of morality; eschew all manner of superstition; and "live a life of happy ignorance of all things unconnected with the present." Were this the whole story, these hyperborean Tobuchis might fairly pass as an extraordinary race, better placed in some such chronicle as Candide, than in the log-book of a modern navigator; but the report goes on to assure us of an additional trait, which certainly individualizes this from all previous ethnological developments. "They have no knowledge of the existence of a Supreme Being, and acknowledge no authority superior to animal instinct." If Captain RODGERS has really made this discovery, we have only to say he has stumbled on one in the extraordinary of the human race.

[illegible] from the Chinese, to that of Captain KANE, the American [illegible] to improve humanness; and civilization, in its [illegible] has never been discovered unattended with a corresponding enlargement of the religious idea. Such a community has been classed with the Kingdom of Prester Jonas and the realm of the El Dorado. Capt. RODGERS has the merit of producing the first nation of civilized atheists.

To achieve the full eclat of such a discovery, the navigator lives a century too late. It would have been a no-godsend to the encyclopedists of 1756; they would have glorified him. It was the fashionable folly of that day to quarrel with Revelation, and deny any Supreme existence; and geography was called in to assist philosophy, poetry, and romance, where, as they are quite apt to do, they fell short of satisfactory demonstration. To prove that the idea, God, was no necessary inmate of the human understanding, and that the law of nature was in reality a local and arbitrary code, the finding of sundry godless tribes in Central Asia and Central Africa was cited in evidence. These discoveries, it is needless to say, turned out, upon closer investigation, to be purely imaginary; every one of the tribes, where they existed at all out of the brains of the DIDEROTS and D'HOLBACHS of the day, proving to possess, at least, an indistinct recognition of the Supreme Being, and of some higher rule of faith and practice than individual will, however narrow and ridiculous the conceptions of both may have been. The facts, in every instance, gave way under the theory. KANT, before the century ran out, found the point so well settled against the philosophers, that he assumed the being of God as an inseparable credendum of the human mind, and, as such, gave it room in his definition of pure reason. A truth conceded by German rationalism may reasonably be received as indisputable. This of theism has been so held; and, but for the researches of Captain RODGERS, would probably continue in all time to rank as a primary truth.

We can only hope there is some mistake about the matter. May it not, after all, be suspected that this, with other previous disclosures of the same kind, must fail before careful scrutiny? The stay of the gallant rover among the Atheists was short; he possessed no knowledge of the language; whatever information he received, especially upon metaphysical topics, came to him through an interpreter acquainted, we fancy, with little beside the vocabulary of common things; and in all likelihood, as ignorant of English as of Tobuchese. It is consequently rash, upon such testimony, to say that that most incredible of anomalies, a race of Atheists, has been discovered; and we would advise the Commodore to modify, in his official report of the expedition, the positive language of the communication he has given to the San Francisco press. The citizens of Senivane are obviously too respectable a community to merit such scandal.

Forcing Down Prices—Cheap Bread.

There is but one true way of regulating trade, and that is to let it regulate itself; after thousands of years of experimenting and political quackery, this, at least, is the judgment of the most enlightened commercial nations of the earth. But the disposition to tinker and regulate trade is still very strong in a good many individuals, and hardly a day passes in which some new scheme is not broached for bringing down prices on the part of the purchaser, and for putting them up on the part of the seller. The chief aim of the agriculturist is to raise the price of grain, and he is ready to join in any scheme which promises to effect his purpose; on the other hand, the great aim of the consumer of grain is to bring down the price, and he is easily entrapped by any arrangement which promises to cheapen flour or bread; but the great current of trade moves steadily on, unchanged by any of these artificial schemes to interfere with its course, and prices rise or fall in strict obedience to the great law of supply and demand which have, and always must continue to regulate prices.

We have seen a good many notices of "bread unions" being formed in Albany, Philadelphia, and other cities, the object of which was to cheapen bread to the consumer. But, we doubt the policy of such associations, and do not believe that they can be productive of any good results. Men do not live by bread alone, and if the principle of unions be a wise one as applied to flour, why not apply it to all other articles of daily consumption, and have beef unions, milk unions, and cloth unions? What a complicated system there would soon be, and the expense of maintaining these various societies would be greater than that of maintaining the private shops and stores from which the community now derives the daily supply of food and clothing.

The only true principle of trade is that of unrestricted private competition; and though an association might possibly be formed, by which prices of bread would be cheapened for a season, there would inevitably be a corresponding loss in some other articles, or a corresponding advance in prices another season.

A movement, on a large scale, apparently, has recently been commenced in Boston, fruitful in notions of a similar character, the object of which is to furnish cheap bread to the people; and the means of accomplishing this most desirable end is to dispense with middle-men, and to deal solely for cash. But, to do this, to abolish middle-men and credit, would be to destroy commerce altogether, and, by reducing wages, to make the prime necessaries of life more difficult than ever to be obtained. As for middle-men, the association itself becomes a middle-man—for it is simply an impossibility for the consumer to make his purchases directly of the producer.

A "House of Equity" has been established, and the managers are attempting to give currency to their absurd speculation by issuing a periodical, which they call the Popular Paper, wherein their crude theories are enlarged upon and set forth in very choice sentences.

The "new equity movement," as the scheme for cheapening provisions is called, is as old as [illegible] with a few and trivial flaws, the supposed of which will, in some way have to be borne by the consumers of the provisions which the House of Equity sells in.

It is not as all creditable to the enlightened city of Boston that such a piece of possible quackery as the House of Equity should be founded there; but, as we remarked before, such schemes spring up there with great vigor among the enlightened people of Massachusetts, just as the famous Brook Farm and kindred associations have done. But the laws of nature cannot be frustrated by any association, and, in due time, the House of Equity, like all its predecessors in social and commercial quackery, will be swept away by the irresistible current of natural law.

Lost Friends of the Wood Dynasty.

With the inauguration of Mayor WOOD, a shower of golden promises was rained down upon our heads, a halo of brightness surrounded the City Hall, and visions of the future glory of the City danced before our eyes, in his brilliant proclamations, until the sight ached from their effulgence. Our streets were not only to be kept clean, but righteousness was to flow down Broadway like a river. There was to be no more corruption among the Departments, no filth outside, no rottenness within; there was to be a new City Hall, the City was to be beautified, public morals improved, improper characters were to be arrested, the taxes lessened, the public finances husbanded, the streets swept by contract, groggeries were to be closed on Sunday, and a general renovation and reformation were to take place in every department of the City administration.

But we are drawing towards the close of the first year of Mayor WOOD's administration, and the fruition of the brilliant promise of its commencement is still as remote as ever. The glowing stars in the brilliant constellation of our Mayor's inaugural promises have gradually waned and expired; one pleiad after another has departed, and they are only now to memory dear. The great changes have not taken place; Mayor WOOD has not been able to execute his rash vows, or has not thought it worth his while to do it. If we were put to it to point out the improvements in the City, in its police, its cleanliness, or the economical administration of its affairs, we should have to confess our inability to do it.

What has become of the new City Hall? What disposition has been made of those superb plans which were to add magnificence to the Park, and give accommodation for the City Offices which are now scattered all over the City, at so great an expense and such inconvenience to the public? New accommodations were required for the public offices twenty years ago, yet they are not yet furnished, though they are more needed than ever. The City Hall is fast becoming a most inconvenient nuisance; it is wholly inadequate to the requirements of the public service, and it is not kept in a reputable condition. The rear of the Hall, directly under the Mayor's nose, is one of the foulest spots in the City, which we should think that some of the lusty bestowed officials who hang round the office of our Chief Magistrate might make a note of. The Health Officer, the City Inspector, the Chief of Police, the Commissioner of Repairs and Supplies, or the Street Commissioner, ought, for the credit of the City, for the personal health and comfort of those whose business requires them to pass and repass in the rear of the City Hall, to have the nuisance in question abated.

We were not among those who believed that Mayor WOOD was going to effect a sudden and radical reform in the Government of the City, in consequence of his brilliant promises and proclamations; but we must confess to a certain degree of disappointment that where so much was promised so little has been accomplished.

Beef in the City and in the Country and on the Railroads.

There was a slight increase in the prices of Beef at Forty-fourth-street yesterday, amounting to not quite one-half cent per pound. The receipts for the week at the four regular yards, and at Bergen were about 4,500, very nearly equaling those of the preceding week. This is about a fair weekly supply for the consumption of the City. The Kentucky drovers say that at present prices, and with the increased charges upon the railroads between Cincinnati and this City, they cannot afford to bring on cattle.

Several feeders from Southern and Middle Ohio and Indiana tell us that they have an abundance of cattle in those regions, but they have so much surplus hay and corn, that they must keep their stock at home to consume these products, and next Spring they will send us "any quantity" of splendid fat beeves, provided the railroads do not keep on raising their prices. A drove of 100 beeves, that could come from Cincinnati to this City, by railroad, for $700, a few weeks since, is now charged about $1,800. These increased charges may be absolutely necessary for the railroads; if not necessary, they are bad policy—for they will materially decrease the business, since they absorb nearly the whole difference between the price here and at the West. A number of Western owners of cattle informed us to-day that they should kill and pack their remaining stock, now ready for market, and ship the beef to New-Orleans, or sell it in the home markets. A little better market here will probably change this resolution.

The State Legislature.

We have advices from Schoharie County, which, with Delaware, makes up the Seventeenth District, that RAMSAY (Republican) has 340 majority in that county over MOSES, Delaware gave MOSES 100. RAMSAY is, therefore, elected. This gives the Republicans 17, the Know-Nothings 11, and the Democrats 4.

The Assembly stands 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats, and 25 Know-Nothings.

☞ There were no signs of the People up to the time of going to press this morning. This is an extremely unusual, by customary whole, which prevail at this season with more or less violence.

Musical and Dramatic Items.

MONTREAL, C. W.—Mr. FERRIER took his benefit here on Saturday last. The season has not been very prosperous, at least so we judge from the Montreal papers.

PHILADELPHIA.—Mr. J. S. BLACK gives a grand Concert here on Thursday evening, in which our great pianist, GOTTSCHALK, is to play. Mr. BLACK has adopted an ingenious mode of disposing of his tickets. He makes a liberal reduction to clubs, as the newspapers do. Good idea....The Musical Union gave their Concert on Tuesday evening. The principal feature was MOZART's "Twelfth Mass"....MIle. RACHEL commences a series of eight performances at the Walnut-street Theatre on Monday next. Philadelphia may, in due season, receive its letter of apology.....The Comedy of "Masks and Faces" was played at the Walnut on Tuesday. Mr. A. H. DAVENPORT, as Charles Pomander, and Miss WEMYSS as Peg Woffington. It was this play that gave CHARLES READE the plot of his novel, Peg Woffington.....Mrs. FIGUMS is at the City Museum. Nothing particular elsewhere.

CLEVELAND.—The spectacle of "Aladdin, or the Wonderful Lamp" was produced here on Monday night with great splendor. There appears to be rather a fierce kind of rivalry going on between the management of this house and the management of the Athenæum, (where, by the way, our old favorite DAVIDGE is playing). The Athenæum man announces a kind of gift enterprise. His patrons are to receive shares in a distribution of prizes. Among the latter we find this quiet dig at the opposition establishment: "four shares of the stock of the Cleveland Theatre, cost originally $35 per share, now valued at $1 per share."

CHICAGO.—Mr. E. L. DAVENPORT and Miss VINING concluded a successful engagement here on Saturday evening.

ST. LOUIS.—Miss MAGGIE MITCHELL has been playing at the People's Theatre....Miss ADAH ROBERSON is at the St. Louis Theatre.

BOSTON.—Mr. FORREST is drawing good houses at the Boston Theatre.....At the National the "Flying Dutchman" has been revived, with success.... OLE BULL commenced a series of Concerts here on Monday evening.

TROY.—Mr. and Miss CHARLES are playing at the Troy Museum....Regular Company at the Adelphi....Miss ANNA CRUISE played here last night.

ALBANY.—"An exciting and terrific drama," called the "Surgeon of Paris," was produced at the Green-street Theatre, on Monday evening, with success.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The Fyne and Harrison troupe have been drawing good houses here.

PITTSBURG.—Mlle. PARODI gave a grand concert here on Monday evening....Miss MEROU is playing at the theatre.

CINCINNATI.—PARODI gave a concert here last night....Miss INGE is at the National Theatre. She will be succeeded by Mr. DAVENPORT and Miss FANNY VINING.

BALTIMORE.—Mr. J. E. OWENS is at the Charles-street Theatre....The Fyne and Harrison troupe commenced an engagement here on Monday evening.

Death of an Ex-Member of Congress.

Hon. THOMAS LEE, Ex-Member of Congress from New Jersey, died at his residence, at Port Elizabeth, New-Jersey, Nov. 2. The deceased was a native of Chester County, Pa., but removed to New Jersey when young. He filled various honorable positions in his State, and in Congress was a warm supporter of Gen. JACKSON's administration.

The Pacific Express Company—Its Freight Charges.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

DEAR SIR: Noticing an article in your correspondence from San Francisco in this morning's paper, which would seem to charge the Pacific Express Company with extortionary demands on freight to California, an explanation is due from us in justice to ourselves.

Your correspondent is ignorant with regard to the classification of freight and small parcels in Express business, and a party sending a daguerreotype (costing 50 cts.) to San Francisco, could, with more propriety, object to the charge, which would be $1, being twice the cost of the article.

It is pretty generally known, the Pacific Express Company were the first to reduce the charges on freight to California, to the low price of 50 cents per pound, but by this it is not to be understood that small packages and parcels come under the classification of freight; if so, no Express Company could live, or pay its expenses.

We have no definite idea of the size or value of the package mentioned by your correspondent, but presume the charge must have been in accordance with the usual charges of Express Companies, or else a mistake was made by the shipper, in stating the contents and value of it.

The charges on freight to California in 1849, varied from 60 cents to $1 per pound, and have been reduced from year to year, as the facilities for transportation increased. PACIFIC EXPRESS COMPANY.

New-York, Nov. 14, 1856.

☞ PRESCOTT's new work, History of the Reign of Philip II., is announced as in press by Messrs. PHILLIPS, SAMPSON & Co., of Boston. They state that two volumes of it will be published on the 10th of December. It is announced that these two volumes bring down the story to the accession of Count Egmont and Horne in 1566, and to the imprisonment and death of Don CARLOS, whose mysterious fate, so long the subject of speculation, is now first explained by the light of the authentic records of Simancas.

Quartette Soirees.

Mr. THEODORE EISENLAUER's Classical Quartette Soirées commence for the season on Saturday evening next. They will be given, as heretofore, in DONZETTI's elegant little Concert Room. We are happy to hear that the subscription list is nearly filled. Mr. EISENLAUER has labored hard to establish these soirées, and it is but right that his efforts should be properly appreciated. The programme for Saturday is peculiarly attractive—the two great features being CHOPIN's Trio (op. 8) and MOZART's Quintet, in G minor. At the first Mr. THEODORE HOFFMAN takes the piano part, and in the second Mr. BURKE is added to the usual Quartette party. Success to good music.

Illness of Miss Hensler.

At the Academy of Music, last evening, Miss HENSLER, while singing at the opening of her part in the "Prophet," was seized with a sudden illness, which compelled her to leave the stage. Her part was consequently omitted.

CONCERT AT THE BROOKLYN ATHENÆUM.—Signor BENDANI, one of our very best resident vocalists, assisted by several other artists of distinction, gives an excellent concert here to-night. We commend it to the attention of our Brooklyn friends.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—Miss ADA CLARE is to make her second appearance on the stage to-morrow evening at the Metropolitan, in the play of "The Wife," by SHERIDAN KNOWLES, which is to follow a new play entitled "Love and Revenge." The performance is to be wholly by amateurs. Aside from her ability, Miss CLARE has a large circle of personal friends, who will take special interest in this announcement.

Lecture on the Colored Women of the Middle States.

Mr. Frederick Douglass, a native African, delivered an address last Thursday evening, on Thursday evening, at the Colored Orphans' Home. Mr. Douglass was chairman, and opened the services with prayer, and introduced the orator of the evening, who certainly did justice to his reputation. He dwelt emphatically upon the duties of the colored race, and was rich in description of events in which colored women had distinguished themselves. He hoped that colored women would be better appreciated, and that a fuller sympathy might subsist between the colored men and women of the time. The Colored Orphans' Home was established by women, carried on by women, and is now sustained by women. He considered it entitled to the support of the colored people of New-York. A vote of thanks was given to the lecturer.

A Case of Seduction.

A pretty girl was seen by the steps of the City Hall lately, apparently weeping; a young man stepped up to her, talked awhile, and left. She then went up to Officer Masterson, and claimed his protection. Walking with her to the New-Haven House, she told him that she arrived on the previous night with a middle-aged man whom she called her cousin. At the hotel, however, the officer found that the "cousin" had registered their names as S——— and lady.

The girl then told her story thus: Her name was M. A. M———, of Northbridge, Mass. Her father had treated her with coolness, as she thought, and she, while very young, married a sailor, who—poor fellow—leaving soon for sea, placed her under her father's guardianship. Not enjoying much affection for her father, she made frequent visits to some relatives at Penobscot, Maine. During one of these visits she became acquainted with S———, a Conductor on one of the cars of the Harlem Railroad Company. He pretended affection for her, and talked much of the bitterness of her condition and of her weakness in staying with relations so forgetful of their duties. He further advised her to get on to this City, where, he said, she could easily obtain employment, and await the return of her husband. She took his advice, and proposed to leave her parent's residence to visit Penobscot. Her father consented, and she started. After proceeding a short distance, however, according to concerted plan, she turned back and came towards this City, meeting S——— on his train. S——— took her to the New-Haven Hotel, where, as we have seen he entered their names on the register as "——— S——— and lady," and took a room.

In the morning the seducer left the City with his train, promising to return next day. He has a wife and several children. It was during this temporary absence that the officer became acquainted with the girl.

Word was at once sent to the father as to the condition of his daughter, but, from some reason, he failed to make his appearance by the train designated. The officer accordingly met the conductor, on his arrival in the City, and letting him know that he was well posted in all the particulars, bade him take the girl back. The man would not consent to face the parents, but agreed to see her safely to her friends at Penobscot, whence, he supposed, she could make her way home. This was assented to. What further came of the girl we have not yet learned. We fear that this last step was but the beginning of a most disreputable career.

Accidents.

FALL OF A BUILDING.

At 11¼ o'clock on Monday night, a large six-story brick building, in Thirteenth-street near First-avenue, fell with a terrible crash. No one was hurt. Only three persons were within the building, and they were forewarned of the occurrence by hearing the walls crack, and succeeded in escaping unhurt. The building was occupied as a Brewery by Mr. M. P. Ryan, and consisted of two structures, having a front of about 25 feet, and running back 100 feet. The front and sides are still standing, but the greater portion of the rear wall, with all those portions supported by it is in ruins. Until the rubbish is cleared away it will be impossible to discover the real cause of the occurrence. But the difficulty, whatever it was, must have existed either in the foundation or first story, for every story has fallen. Had the accident occurred during the day-time, when all the employe's (fifty or sixty in number,) were at work, it would no doubt have caused a terrible loss of life. The loss is estimated at about $30,000.

Optics in Opposition.

The Telescope Man and the Microscope Man got together, cheek-by-jowl, in the Park, Saturday. They ran opposition to each other all day, and when night came on the Microscope Man got up artificial lights and the Telescope Man used those that twinkled away up above him. One brought big things down, and the other one brought little things up—and that was all the difference between them.

A Foundling.

In the privy of the South Ferry house at Whitehall, some person left a child, on Tuesday, which was sent to the Almshouse. It appeared to be about three or four days old and was well dressed.

LONG ISLAND.

Thackeray in Brooklyn.

THACKERAY delivered his First GEORGE on Tuesday night, in H. W. BEECHER'S Church, Brooklyn. The doors of the Church were opened at 7 o'clock, just half an hour after a very compact crowd had gathered about it, blocking up the sidewalk and filling the street. Fifteen minutes after the doors opened, every seat and every chair was occupied. The clergy abounded. One grave and venerable member of that profession it did us particular good to see there—Dr. HUMPHREY, formerly of Amherst College. Indeed, the élite of Brooklyn, and certainly its beauty, was ably represented on the occasion. The organist of the Church kept the congregation at peace by volunteering some very fine music—among it "God Save the Queen," with her variations. Mr. THACKERAY made as awkward a bow as ever, and then proceeded. His points were properly appreciated, and there struck us scores of fine hits which we failed to enjoy at his first reading. We noticed a very few alterations. This time it was "Good Mrs. Strickland" in the Church of the Messiah it was "Good old Mrs. Strickland," who apologized for one of England's lady ornaments. There were no changes, however, which indicated the satirist to be a reader of the Evangelist. The second of this Course, for which Brooklyn is indebted to the enterprise of the Young Men's Christian Association, will be delivered next Tuesday evening. He cannot have a better house. Last evening THACKERAY delivered his first lecture in Williamsburg.

County Canvassers.

The Kings County Board of Supervisers met in the City Hall, Brooklyn, on Tuesday afternoon, as a Board of Canvassers. After organizing, it was decided that the three candidates for the office of Justice of the Peace having the highest number of votes should be declared elected, without regard to the Districts for which they were nominated. The Board then proceeded to canvass, taking the Wards in regular order, and completing every ticket in each Ward as they proceed. The canvass will not be finished before Saturday next.

During Burglary.

The house of DAVID SCUDDER, in Pearl, near Tillary-street, Brooklyn, was entered by a burglar, at an early hour on Tuesday morning, and robbed of a considerable sum of money and property of value. The thief aroused a servant girl, and threatened her with death if she made any disturbance. He effected his escape from the house before the Police were alarmed.

Attempted Suicide.

AN INSANE MAN, named THERANDE MCCAWE, attempted to commit suicide in the Kings County jail, on Saturday night last, by cutting his throat with a piece of hoop iron. He was taken to the City Hospital, where he is in a fair way of recovering.

Stabbing.

A colored man was stabbed by a boy, name JOHN I. [illegible], in Queens County, Monday night, and it is supposed mortally wounded. The boy was committed for examination.

Time.	First Heat.	Second Heat.	Third Heat.
Half mile	1:17	1:20	1:19
Mile	2:39	2:40¼	2:41

A trotting match for $1,000, mile heats, best 3 in 5, came off Tuesday afternoon, between the above horses. It was a capital race, and the two first heats were closely contested throughout. The betting was in favor of the filly, she selling at $100 to $60. On the first heat the mare led to the quarter-pole, when the horse went up to her, and a very interesting contest ensued to the score. He won the heat, and appeared to have gone as fast as was comfortable. On the second heat, the mare took the lead, and kept it to the draw-gate, when she broke, and the horse won the heat by a length. Third heat—both having sweat out nicely and dried up well, a desperate heat was anticipated. The friends of the Lady still offered $100 to $80, that she would win. She distanced the horse and won the race and money, much to the surprise of all present in this heat.

Same day, trotting match for $300, mile heats, best 3 in 5, to wagons.

H. Woodruff names b. m. Lady Walters. Rec'd forfeit.

DANCING.

LA CRINOLEENNE AT THE CITY ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Signor SARACCO, who during the last 9 years has had the honor of introducing the most fashionable dances, begs to inform the public that on the 14th of December next, he will give a grand ball at the splendid and elegant City Assembly Rooms, where the new dance "La Crinoleenne" will be danced by his pupils, who will preside over the festival. Terms of subscription including twelve lessons, may be obtained gratuitously now, however, which indicated the satirist to be a reader of the Evangelist. The second of this Course, for which Brooklyn is indebted to the enterprise of the Young Men's Christian Association, will be delivered next Tuesday evening. He cannot have a better house. Last evening THACKERAY delivered his first lecture in Williamsburg.

MR. CHABRUAUD'S DANCING SCHOOL—Is now open at No. 54 East 13th-st., west of Broadway, on every Wednesday and Saturday, at 11¼ and 2½ o'clock P. M., for ladies, misses and masters. A class for gentlemen is forming, Monday and Thursday, at 7½ P. M.

A. DODWORTH'S PRIVATE DANCING ACADEMIES—No. 806 Broadway, New-York; No. 127 Montague-place, Brooklyn, are now open for the season. Pupils can commence at any time. Circulars, explaining time and terms, can be had at the Academies.

A NEW THING ENTIRELY.—THE MOST ASTONISHING PERFORMANCE HEARD OF! BARRELS, FIRKINS, KEGS AND THE WHOLE COOPER FAMILY MADE AND FINISHED WITHOUT A DEFECT, AIR-TIGHT, AND SMOOTH ENOUGH TO VARNISH, ENTIRELY BY MACHINERY.—Our Machine with the tools used to perform the work, is a patent, for which we have received gold and silver medals, and State diplomas, and last, though not least the first and only premium, on kegs and barrel machinery, by Jury D, at the Crystal Palace.

It takes the timber in the bolt, saws the staves, hollowing with the grain, cuts them all of equal length, planes both inside and outside perfectly smooth, tries the quality of the timber, joints them, in a peculiar manner, giving each stave its proper proportion of bilge, according to its width, be it wide or narrow, howells, cuts the cross, turns the head, and reversing the barrel or keg for the howling process, in a manner so perfect, complete and well finished, that we challenge the world to produce a better barrel, firkin or keg than our Machines make at the rate of three hundred per day, to the single set, to which was invite the particular attention of all who choose to give them an inspection.

We manufacture with our Machine samples of the Barrel family, from the smallest White Lead Keg to the largest Cask; and, upon application, orders can be promptly executed. Rights and Machines for sale, or to work on the packing of flour, pickles, fish, &c., the machine will make an important article, and the chance is considerable in the trade.

We have a shop at Black Rock, New-York, directly on the line of the New-York Central Railroad, and the shop of the Niagara Falls Railroad, five minutes' walk north of the Bridge, where we can at any time, exhibit the operation of these Machines, and can at their perfect satisfaction every branch of the work. We feel the utmost pleasure in exhibiting to such everything connected with the work.

Persons desirous of purchasing the right and machine for any district now unsold, can receive information in relation thereto, by enclosing letter to through the mail. There are but few of the Patent remaining unsold; and applicants will be referred to the proprietor of such, some of whom will, without doubt, hold for disposal portions, more than they apparently need, for the trade. We feel, in fact, all persons who have contemplated the purchase of a right, that the time of their delay, will be invested for the same purpose, and must entirely supersede all hand cooperage, leave and heading saws on hand.

Address, STEVENS & MORRIS, Patentees, Company, BUFFALO, N. Y. M. H. PERRIN, Agent.

EYE-GLASS CURES.

The direct object in the preservation of health is to enable each element, active or passive, a regular and vigorous action of the digestive functions, and when stimulated, or by tablets, NEW-YORK'S DYSPEPSIA ELIXIR, which is all cases will be found a speedy and permanent remedy. For sale by A. B. & D. SANDS, druggists, 100 Fulton-st.

TO THE FEVERISH.—Have you contracted that terrible disease which, when once rooted in the system, will cling to it, despite the skill of the physician, and, sapping the very vital fluids of life? Do not some moments in the hours of your days, unless that cloud up every day in a City like this, and the poison will be dissipated, and the health restored, as well as the vigor of the system, and the spirits put up to the tasks of fortune, and domestic happiness.

You cannot be too careful in the selection of a physician and a remedy in these cases. You should apply to a man who has had an extensive practice, and who has devoted his attention to Dr. HUNTER, proprietor of the Hunterian Dispensary, No. 5 Division-st., New-York City. He lays his claims on the following facts which can be proved at any moment.

He has been in active practice over twenty-five years in this City, and established the art of healing in this, exclusively for the treatment of Venereal diseases, and has devoted all his abilities during all that time to this branch of medicine only. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP—the name is perfectly innocent in its sound, yet so thorough that it annihilates every particle of the rank and and poisonous virus, and the dreadful effects, and in this account alone it was first made public, that unlike all other remedies it does not dry up the disease in the blood, to break out at a remote period all over the body, or to transmit to the offspring. It has saved the pedigree of some of the best families in America, and has saved more lives since it was discovered than the City contains. It has been counterfeited and shadowed more than any remedy of any kind ever brought before the public, and owing that unless they deter the unfortunate from obtaining it, their prospect for pulmonary is gone. For the years back every boasting quack doctor in this and other cities, has put up some lie about this remedy, and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then take the opposite tack: i. e. pretend they can make it. Dr. HUNTER restores people to sound health daily, who have been ruined with mercury and other quack humbugs. The Hunterian Dispensary is conducted on the most honorable principles. No man is asked who or what he is; Dr. HUNTER's business is to cure his patients, and no one knows but his patients and himself that they ever met professionally. He desires young men attached to respectable families, and who are led astray by the numerous temptations of City life to understand this. He has refused more certificates of cures from persons whom he has been unnecessarily boasted by other doctors than would fill the largest newspaper in the world a dozen times over, being restrained by the injurious effects it might produce on their character, in after life; for, reader, his patients have all cured, sound health after his treatment. Young men do not be allured, and have this poisonous disease dried up in your system, to break out at some remote period in a more terrible manner; but apply at once to the old place, No. 5 Division-st., and rest assured that you will receive the utmost care and attention until a perfect, sound and thorough cure is effected, which is accomplished in a short period, from three to eight days only. This great remedy is one dollar a vial, with a medical book, full of truth, not lies! Cures without restriction of dieting.

TRIESEMAR.—THE GREAT EUROPEAN DISCOVERY.—Protected by Royal Letters Patent of England, and secured by the sales of the Ecole de Pharmacie de Paris, and by the Imperial College of Medicine, Vienna. TRIESEMAR No. 1—is the remedy for the secret, local debility, loss of virile power, premature decay, and all the distressing consequences arising from early abuse, &c. Its effects are efficacious in youth, manhood and old age; the virile powers would not become impaired, ever in the decline of life, if the Triesemar were universally adopted; all physicians of eminence have long made it before the influence, thus rendering its use invaluable to those entering the marriage state.

TRIESEMAR No. 2—Completely and entirely eradicates all traces of those disorders which copaiva and cubebs have so long been thought an antidote for, to the ruin of the health of a large portion of the population.

TRIESEMAR No. 3 is the great, safe, and sure remedy for that class of disorders which unfortunately the English Physician treats with mercury, to the inevitable destruction of the patient's constitution, and which all the Sarsaparilla in the world cannot remove.

TRIESEMAR No. 1, 2 and 3, are alike devoid of taste or smell, and retaining qualities of a nature, they may lay on the toilet table without their use being detected.

Sold in tin cases at $3 each, divided into separate doses, as administered by Valpeau, Lallemand, Roux, &c.

To be had wholesale and retail of Mr. H. A. BARROW, No. 31 Greene-st., near Canal, New-York, specially appointed by the Proprietor and Patentee as Agent for the United States, and every other part of America, immediately on receiving a remittance Mr. Barrow will forward the Triesemar to any part of the world, securely packed, and addressed according to the instructions of the writer.

Sold also by W. B. ZIEBER, No. 44 South 3d-st., below Chestnut-st., Philadelphia. Retail Agents required. Terms cash.

R. R. R.—RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.—Diarrhœa, cholera morbus, or painful discharges from the bowels, are stopped in 15 or 20 minutes by RADWAY'S READY RELIEF. R. R. R. No. 3—RADWAY'S REGULATORS are the most safe and reliable Pills in use, and will cure effectively and quick—costiveness, indigestion, inflammation of the bowels, dyspepsia, liver complaint, diseases of the heart, kidneys, bladder, womb difficulties, and all female complaints, fevers, chills, fever and ague, and 100 ills, arising out of order, a dose of RADWAY'S REGULATORS will restore it to regularity. RADWAY & CO.,
No. 162 Fulton-st., UP STAIRS, New-York.

DR. MAGNIN'S LUCINA CORDIAL, OR ELIXIR OF LOVE.—This delightful and positive invigorant of the human system is fast superseding all other remedies; in fact, when its virtues become fully known it will be the only remedy in use. Its action on the nervous system and reproductive organs is instantaneous and lasting, inspiring all over excitement and infusing into the nervous organization that degree of tension which is requisite to give the human system the enjoyment of its full powers, both mentally and physically. As an appetizer it is equally remarkable; assimilating with the gastric juices of the stomach, it renders them in more readily dissolving all nutritious substances, and converting them into pure and wholesome blood; thus the digestion is improved and the whole framework of man moves on in a more vigorous and harmonious manner thereby. Price $2 per bottle, or two bottles for $3. Principal office No. 78 Maiden-lane.
DR. MAGNIN.

MEDICAL ADVISER AND MARRIAGE GUIDE.—Eleventh edition, cloth, 345 pages, 75 colored engravings, representing all the diseases of the genital organs of the male and female, with the latest discoveries in reproduction. The afflicted should use no remedies before learning from this valuable work the superiority of the author's Paris and London treatment of private diseases. Both married and single should consult it. Sold at No. 228 Broadway, and mailed free for $1, by the author, M. LARMONT, graduate of Paris and Surgeon, No. 42 Bond-st., corner of Broadway, where he cures all those diseases, from 8 A. M. till 2 P. M., and 6 to 9 in the evening, Sundays excepted. Address Box No. 844 New-York Post-Office. We concur with the other papers in recommending Dr. LARMONT to the afflicted.—Courier des Etats-Unis, Stadt Zeitung, Democrat, Day-Book, Courier, Dispatch.

PRIVATE CONSULTATIONS.—DR. WATSON confines his practice to a certain class of diseases, in which he has treated more than twenty thousand cases, without one instance of failure. The remedies are mild, and do not keep the patient from business, or expose him to detection, while in most recent cases there is a cure in twenty-four hours. Dr. WATSON desires to state that, as many have been deceived by the promises of certain charlatans, and been injured by drugs, patients are respectfully invited to call, in the first place, as there is no charge for consultation. W. WATSON, M. D.,
Many years Surgeon to the Lock Hospital; Author of "The Cause and Cure;" numerous plates, $1. Office No. 60 Walker-st., near Broadway.

DR. RALPH'S PRACTICAL PRIVATE TREATISE—16th edition; 342 pp., with plates. The most clear and practical information is given on every form of these diseases—invaluable to every one it may concern, and constituting a safeguard against quackery. Price $1. Sold at No. 121 Nassau, No. 2 Vesey-st., (Astor House,) and by the author.

Dr. RALPH is consulted especially on the more severe or chronic cases, at his offices, No. 642 Houston-st., near Wooster, between the hours of 9 to 12 A. M. and 6 to 9 P. M., Sunday excepted.

MEDICAL OFFICE.—DR. COOPER, No. 14 Duane-st., between Chatham and William sts., may be consulted with confidence. His medicines are applicable to every form of disease; even the weakest of them can take them without fear of discovery. His medicines for nervous debility, after removing the disease, leave the system in as good condition as before the dread malady took up its abode therein. Office hours from 8 o'clock A. M., to 8 o'clock P. M.

CAMPHORATED TRANSPARENT STRENGTHENING PLASTER—Spread on Canton flannel, cured Judge Birdsall of a painful neuralgic rheumatism: nothing equal to them for pains, bruises, rheumatism, weak lungs, &c. Physicians recommend them. Made only by R. B. NEWMAN, M. D., No. 303 Hudson-st., and for sale by druggists generally. Price 12½ cents.

The Female

[illegible] Yesterday, with a [illegible] Hollander, battered [illegible] and fire-hardened woman. The [illegible] was a [illegible] Dutchman, [illegible] old acquaintanceship, who told a peculiarly tale of [illegible]

[illegible] was severely on [illegible] said, "and he arrived in this City on Monday last. Feeling very dry he [illegible] in the Bowery and partook of a glass of [illegible]. Having done so, he saw [illegible] the bar-keeper and a young woman [illegible] behind the counter, and [illegible] conversation with [illegible] him to drink again at the expense of the landlord. The lady was particularly [illegible] and fascinating in her conduct; so much so [illegible] determined to "feel quite at home and [illegible] with his new-made acquaintances." [illegible] drank and laughed and [illegible] again till he began to feel very [illegible] about the head, so "strange" that he [illegible] himself. He had to be assisted that just [illegible] "was my [illegible]." The feeling [illegible] was such as if he were drunk (he was [illegible] not a case of mixed drinking. The [illegible] was falling [illegible] the hospitable bar-keeper [illegible] Where he awoke he [illegible] and an empty wallet; all [illegible] with him. All in good Connecticut [illegible] A warrant was issued [illegible] the arrest of the guilty pair.

A TURN IN [illegible]

The next witness called was a young woman, with [illegible] and a child at the breast. She was [illegible] of trouble, the said, and declined to tell his Honor all about it.

Magistrate—Well, my good woman, be as brief as possible.

Woman—Indeed 'n I will, yer worship; av course I'm [illegible] than yer [illegible] enough to mind widout [illegible] to the likes av me. God knows. But who'd [illegible] I'd not be, [illegible] mind, what do yer want?

Q—Who is Tom, is't? Why, any husband, av [illegible]

A—Well, what has he been doing? Be [illegible]

Q—Sure, divil a [illegible] if you'll only listen I'll tell yer. I was [illegible] in Beekman-street like a [illegible] which is more than his guid [illegible] the station was say, for the rest [illegible] and she strike half a day's [illegible] and cute to her, when was should I [illegible] but Mrs. Maloney. "Is that [illegible]," said she! "Indeed it's that [illegible]." "Where are yer going?" says she. [illegible] I going," says I—"then, be dad, to look [illegible] "Eh?" says Mrs. Maloney to [illegible]

Q—O, we don't want to know what Mrs. [illegible] said. What is the complaint against your [illegible]

A—Sure if you'll listen for a minit I'll tell [illegible]

Q—Go on.

A—Well, we were walkin' out along the [illegible] and he talked to me fair and say till we got [illegible] the public house, and, then, darlin', without [illegible] as ever he loves his tried to get the [illegible] on me.

Q—Tried to "get the better" of you? [illegible] did he do?

A—He did an' you may well ax me that—an' [illegible] yer presence, cover me face and all [illegible] with blushes.

Q—(Indignant and surprised)—Mr. Clerk, [illegible] a warrant. (Magistrate proceeds to fill up [illegible] and asks—Well, my good woman, [illegible] where did this occurrence take place?

A—Where, where do you think?—and it happened [illegible] covers and Lady's Day, because [illegible]

Q—(More indignant and more surprised) Mr. Officer, place this woman out.

[Exit agrieved wife, with baby crying lustily.]

[illegible]

A man giving his name as John Cochran was then [illegible] by Miss Eliza Ann Baker, of [illegible], with picking her pocket-monnaie and its [illegible] $10 72, from her pocket. Miss Baker made [illegible] as she was going on board the steamboat [illegible] Baker, she felt a hand about her person and turning quickly around caught the prisoner in the act of sticking her pocket. Cochran was locked up for trial.

A CALIFORNIA BOY.

Francis W. Schaeger, a nice young man," was brought in, with his face covered with blood.

Magistrate—What has this young man been doing?

Officer—He's been fighting.

Magistrate—He looks like a thief.

Mr. Young Man—I am not a thief. You look more like a thief than I do, Mister Connolly.

Magistrate—Don't be impertinent, Sir. What are the [illegible] of this case?

Officer—He and a lot of Californians got into a row in the Fourth Ward. Complaint was made that he was a vagrant, and I took him.

Q—Have you any friends about you for trial in $500.

A—I have any friends about just at that time, but I can get them fetched up, but at a later hour he [illegible]

[illegible] TO GAMBLING-HOUSE KEEPERS.

[illegible] complained that Mrs. Ann Kane, keeper of a gambling house at No. 31 Washington-street, had been flashing a portfolio of bills and $27 which it contained. Mrs. Kane (who is 60 years of age,) in mention of the charge, stated that the complainant engaged board at her house some days since, and on Monday attempted to decamp without settling up his account. Finding remonstrance with such a proceeding of no avail, she seized her boarder's coat and its contents in security for the board bill. The Magistrate informed her that such proceedings on her part were entirely illegal, and [illegible] she was compelled to hold her for examination in the sum of $1,000. The bonds not being forthcoming, the accused was locked up. Later in the day, however, an up-town friend entered into the necessary recognizance, and Mrs. Kane was set at liberty.

VAGRANTS.

Anna Williams, Jane Reed, May Ferris and Jane Young, voluntarily appeared and desired to be sent on the island as vagrants for the term of three months. Their request was complied with.

An amount of other light business was disposed of.

Essex Market Police Court.

A man by the name of George Tenney was assigned [illegible] the charge of [illegible]

FALSE PRETENCES.

From the affidavits made, it would seem that Tenney is an adept at a business becoming much in vogue. On the 25th of October, it is alleged, Tenney went at the store of C. J. Dunkitt, No. 197 Greenwich-street, a suit of clothes valued at $22, and represented to have the goods sent to No. 25 Howard-st. The clothes were sent on [illegible] Tenney was there when they arrived, but refused to pay charges for the same, but hoped for a more good luck, whereupon they proceeded to the clothing store of Dunkitt.

Sometime after Tenney called at the clothing store of J. S. Republic, No. 407 Bowery-street, and ordered a quantity of gilding, which he desired to have sent to No. 194 Centre-street, where he would pay for it. The gilding was sent as directed. When the clerk in charge of the gilding arrived, Tenney told him he had not the money with him, but if he would accompany him to Trinity Building, Broadway, he would borrow it of a friend. The clerk consented, and both proceeded to Trinity Building, but the "friend" was not to be found. The clerk having suspicions that all was not right, determined to return to Centre-street and secure the gilding. On going back with that view, he ascertained that the gilding had been carted off by some party. Tenney was then notified of the facts, proceeded to Tombs, and he was committed to answer in default of $5,000 bonds.

SAVINGS OF A THIEF.

Mrs. Haley, of Bedford-street, Brooklyn, while riding in a stage in Fulton-street, yesterday afternoon, thought she felt a hand in her pocket. Turning quickly around, she saw a fellow-passenger withdrawing his hand, in which he held her portmonnaie containing $9 50. The thief attempted to get out of the stage, but Mrs. Haley, seizing him by the collar, held him fast. The other passengers assisted the lady and an officer, who was called, entered the stage and arrested the prisoner, and conveyed him to the Mayor's office, where he gave his name as John Stone. Before the policeman arrived, Stone threw away the stolen property, but it was afterwards found. Stone is a tall, good-looking man, and is said to be an old offender. He was committed to prison.

Mayor Wood Getting up Capital Out West.

The Cincinnati papers say: "The Directors of the City Infirmary have received a letter from Mayor Wood, of New-York, in answer to some queries propounded by them to him, as to the reason of the influx of foreign paupers into our city. In his answer he states that they were not sent by the City authorities, but by the Emigration Societies, to his immediate and advance the idea that they were sent by foreign governments direct to this place, which he says he doubts not. Here then our authorities will no doubt stop. We shall notice this matter more fully at some future time."

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

Decisions in Admiralty.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—Nov. 13.

Judge Betts, [illegible] decisions in the following causes heard before him at the last term of the Court.

[illegible] vs. [illegible]—Motion for writ of assistance denied.

L. & A. & [illegible] vs. The Steamboat Sylvester.—The libel in this case was filed to recover for work, labor and materials furnished by the libelants to the steamboat. A contract in writing was made between the owner of the boat and the libelants on the [illegible] the libelants undertook [illegible] and put on board the steamboat certain [illegible] to be furnished at other places, for which the owner agreed to pay them $2,000 on March 1, $2,000 in April, $2,000 when the boat was put [illegible] and all other demands from the libelants in a note payable three months from the completion of this work. The boat was to run between New-York and Albany. The work was finished June 1, 1855. The three cash payments were made, but the note for $2,000 was never given or tendered. Some extra work was done to the boat, the amount of which was disputed. And the agent of the libelants coming to receive payment of both claims, the owner offered to give a note at three months for $2,000 in satisfaction of both. This was declined, and the libel was then filed.

The respondent claimed that the libelants, by agreeing to receive a note at three months from the completion of the work, had waived the lien, given them by the State law, upon the boat for the $1,400. For the rest it was admitted that he would have a lien.

Held by the Court.—That if it can be fairly inferred from the stipulations of the contract that the libelants meant to trust to the personal responsibility of the owner, the contract is inconsistent with the exercise of a lien, and the same is waived. (11 How. R. 53.) And it would also be waived if an unconditional credit were given for the payment, extending beyond the time for which a lien is given by the State law. (1 Peters, 254.)

That the fair import of the lien law of this State is, that the material man shall have a lien for what the owner agrees to give him in payment for his work and materials, provided that which is agreed to be given is by the agreement to be given before the expiration of the time allowed by law for the lien to exist.

That the owner of the Highlander agreed to pay the libelant by a note at three months, to be given when the work was finished, and for the fulfillment of that payment the libelant had a lien. And if the note for $1,400 at three months, had been given or tendered by the owner, the lien would have ceased, as in that case there would have been a credit extending beyond the time allowed by the State law for the existence of the lien.

But the note not having been given or tendered, the libelants still have a lien upon the boat, as well for the balance upon the contract, as for the extra work.

Decree for libelants, with a reference to ascertain the amount.

For libelants, Mr. McMahon. For claimant, Messrs. Benedict, Scoville & Benedict.

COLLISION ON THE NORTH RIVER—LOOK-OUT ON STEAMBOATS—DUTY OF SAILING VESSELS.

Wilson D. Reed vs. The Steamboat New-Haven.—The libel in this case was filed by the owner of the sloop George M. Dallas, to recover the damages occasioned to her by a collision with a barge towed by the steamboat, which happened about 11 o'clock on the night of May 7, 1855, a little below Piermont, on the North River. The night was dark and cloudy, so that sailing vessels could but imperfectly be discovered at the distance of half or three quarters of a mile. The wind was about E. S. E. The river there is about two miles wide, and its course nearly north and south. The sloop was bound to Brooklyn with a cargo of brick, being about seventy-five tons burden, manned by a captain, two deck hands and a cook, and at the time of the collision was on her larboard tack, her sheets being off a few points. The steamer was bound from New-York to Piermont, having one barge on her starboard side and two on her larboard side, the outer one of which struck the sloop on her larboard quarter about 12 feet from her stern, from the effects of which the sloop sunk. At the time of the collision the pilot of the steamboat was at the wheel in the pilot-house, about 50 feet from the stern. The captain was with him and a deck hand. The captain saw the sloop when she first hove in sight on the starboard bow, but turned away and saw no more of her till just before the collision, when a remark of the pilot's as he rung the bells to slow, stop and back, called his attention to her, as well as that of the deck hand. No one was stationed forward as a look-out, though a man was sitting on the bow of the first larboard barge. The steamer was going at the rate of seven or eight miles an hour, and had her lights up.

Those on the sloop first saw the steamer about a mile or a mile and a half distant, and on their larboard bow. Each vessel supposed the other was to the east, holding a course parallel with their own, and would go clear, unless she changed her direction. The sloop held on until within from 50 to 150 yards, and then, apprehending danger, kept away a little, and the pilot of the steamboat then rang his bells and hove his wheel hard a port. When within about thirty yards, the sloop bore more away, but could not thus escape the collision.

Held by the Court—That the rules of law for the government of steamers in respect to a look-out are well settled and are of stern necessity.

That the steamboat did not have such a look-out as is required by the law, (10 How. R., 585,) and by that failure a prima facie case is made out against her, which must stand, unless rebutted by clear and satisfactory proof.

That it is the duty of a sailing vessel, meeting a steamboat, to hold her course, and of the steamboat to avoid her. (10 How., 589; 12 How., 463.)

That upon the facts, both vessels were mistaken as to the course of the other, as instead of being on parallel lines, they were crossing each other's track.

That it was an error in the pilot of the steamer not to have known the true course of the sloop and to have proceeded with unslackened speed.

That the sloop had the right to keep her course, and also a right when she had good reason to apprehend a collision, as the steamer had taken no measures to avoid it, to endeavor herself to escape from it, and if in making such attempt, when peril was threatening, she did not adopt the most judicious course, such error of judgment would not be charged against her as a fault. [The Genesee Chief, 10 How.]

That the evidence in the case does not rebut the prima facie case made out against the steamer, by her failure to have the look-out required by the rules of law, but rather strengthens it, and she must be held liable for the damages.

Decree for libelant with a reference.

For libelant, Mr. McMahon. For claimants, Mr. Beebe and Messrs. Eaton and Davies.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM—Nov. 14.

Before Hon. Justice Clerke.

PROTHONOTARY.

Williams vs. Johnson—Cross Suit.—These motions are to be continued, on filing a supplemental complaint. No costs.

Roberts vs. Dayton.—Motion for writ of assistance denied, without costs.

Before Hon. Justice Mitchell.

Hassell vs. Freeman.—The parties cited are discharged from any further examination. Opinion.

Griffin vs. Griffin.—Order of reference as settled.

Gerry vs. Post et al.—The purchaser must be discharged from his purchase, and be paid the costs of this motion. ($10)—and the costs of examining the title, including a counsel fee on such examination, which are to be repaid to the plaintiff on a future sale of the property. Opinion.

Van Brunck vs. Sloo.—The appointment of a receiver ordered. He is to take the defendant's interest in the annuity for $25,000, and also in the claim now being prosecuted by the defendant in the United States Circuit Court; but must apply to the Court, on ten days' notice, to sell, or compromise, or dispose of the same, and the defendant is to pay $10 costs of motion, and $25 of supplemental proceedings.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS—GENERAL TERM.

Freeborn vs. Jackson.—DALY, J.—This is an application to vacate the transcript of a judgment entered up in the Marine Court. The cause was tried in the Court below, before a single Justice and a Jury, and a verdict having been found for the plaintiff, judgment was entered up by the Justice, in manner and form as prescribed by the statute. (1 Rev. Laws of 1813, p. 386, § 123.) From this judgment the defendant appealed to the General Term of the Marine Court, and the General Term ordered a new trial, unless the plaintiff should elect to reduce the amount of the judgment. This the plaintiff refused to do. Whereupon one of the Justices made an order that the plaintiff make the election in writing, under the order of the General Term, and serve notice thereof upon the defendant within three days after service of notice of the order, which the plaintiff having omitted to do, their complaint was dismissed.

It is insisted that no appeal lay to the General Term in the case, and that the order made by it, granting a new trial, with the proceedings subsequent thereto, were void, and that the judgment still remains in full force and effect. It is claimed that the General Term have no power under the Act of 1853, Laws of 1853, p. 1,165, to review anything but the decision of a single Justice opening a default; but it has been repeatedly held upon motions in this Court that such is not the construction of the statute—but that an appeal lies from any judgment rendered by a single Justice. An appeal lies, in the language of the statute, from a judgment entered upon the direction of a single Justice, "to the General Term," in the same manner, and with the like effect as appeals in the Supreme Court from a decision by a single Judge "to the General Term." The meaning of this is very plain. In the Supreme Court a judgment may be entered upon the decision of a single Justice, without a Jury, from which an appeal lies directly to the General Term. (§ 348.) and when the trial is by a Jury the Clerk enters the judgment in conformity with the verdict, unless a different direction is given by the Court (§ 364.) But the statutes organizing the Marine Court give the Clerk no power to enter judgment in conformity with the verdict of the Jury. He is authorized to docket or register judgment, but the Court must give judgment. (3 Rev. Laws, p. 323, § 110, pp. 327, 112.) The Justice before whom the trial is had, with or without a Jury, must in every case, give judgment, and the Clerk must docket the judgment, in conformity with the entry or minute made by the Justice. As every judgment in the Marine Court is entered upon the direction of the Justice who tries the cause, the provisions of the statute of 1853, that appeals are to be brought in the same manner, and with the like effect as appeals in the Supreme Court from the decision of a single Justice of the Supreme Court, plain or obvious. The party aggrieved from the judgment entered by direction of the Justice of the Marine Court as he would appeal from a judgment entered by direction of a single Justice of the Supreme Court. The mode of procedure in both cases is the same, and as an appeal in the Marine Court is to have the like effect [illegible] the General Term of the Supreme Court [illegible] all the [illegible] the General Term of the Supreme Court would have on the case before the appeal was taken, to order a new trial, or to order the original judgment to stand, or do whatever the Supreme Court might do in any case of an appeal from the decision of a single Justice of the Court to the General Term. The order of the General Term was defective in not pointing out within what time the plaintiff should elect. Special time having been entered, it was competent, as it would have been in the Supreme Court, for a single Justice to make an order that the plaintiff should elect within a reasonable time, and if he failed to do so, to order that the cause be set down for trial, when, if the plaintiff failed to appear and prosecute the case, judgment of default might have been rendered against him. This, it appears, was not done, but the Justice dismissed the complaint upon the plaintiff's refusing to elect. This he had no authority to do. The extent of the decision of the General Term was to order a new trial if the plaintiff would not consent to reduce the amount of the judgment. The General Term did not order that the complaint should be dismissed if the plaintiff failed to elect whether he would have a new trial or reduce the judgment; but that the judgment should be reversed if he did not consent to reduce it to $200, and a new trial ordered. Under that decision, though the plaintiff refused to elect, he was still entitled to have the cause tried over again; of which, it appears, he was deprived by the Justice dismissing his complaint because he refused to elect, whether or not he would reduce the amount of the judgment. This, however does not affect this motion. The cause is yet pending and undetermined, and this motion vacating the transcript of the judgment must be granted.

A. Martinez de Santos vs. P. N. Search.—INGRAHAM, F. J.—The motion is to strike out parts of an answer as frivolous. The action is to recover on four bills of exchange.

To the first bill mentioned in the complaint the defendant sets up in his answer matter in payment thereof. This is not objected to by the plaintiff.

To the second and third bills mentioned in the complaint, which are stated as having been made payable to the plaintiff, and having been delivered to him, the defendant in his answer says that he has not any knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief whether the plaintiff is now the lawful owner and holder of the same.

There is no such allegation in the complaint as the defendant attempts to put in issue by this part of the answer; nor was it necessary that the complaint should contain it. The facts alleged are the making the bill and the delivery to the plaintiff, to whose order it was payable. On either of these allegations the defendant, by a denial, could take issue. If he cannot do so, he has no defence to make by way of denial. If the plaintiff, since he received the bill, has passed it away to another person, that fact should be set up affirmatively in the answer, and in that way an issue would arise on the pleadings. The answer to the second and third count in the complaint is bad, and forms no defence.

The answer to the fourth count, or fourth bill of exchange, denies any knowledge, &c., as to the indorsement of the bill of exchange by the payee. This is, undoubtedly, sufficient, and forms a valid answer to the complaint in this respect, so as to render proof of that indorsement necessary on the trial of the cause.

It is objected that the motion is for judgment as to three counts, and is in the nature of a demurrer, and that if any one of the answers is good, the motion must be denied.

I do not understand that rule as applicable to a demurrer, to apply to a motion. The reason of the rule is that a demurrer admits everything contained in a pleading to be true, and if so, and one part of the answer forms a good defence, the pleading cannot be said to be frivolous. Here, however, no such admission is made, and, on motions, the Court is not limited to granting the whole or none. It is frequently the case that a motion is granted in part and denied in part. In such a case it may affect the question of costs, but not the right to grant the relief in part which is asked for.

In the present case the motion is granted as to the second and third bills of exchange mentioned in the pleadings. So much of the answer as refers to those bills is to be stricken out.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Hon. Recorder Smith.

BURGLARY.

George Dussolph was tried, yesterday, in this Court on a charge of burglary in third degree. The indictment charged him with stealing a bottle of brandy and a bundle of cigars from a public house kept by Mr. Bowe, No. 135 Columbia-street. A verdict of Guilty was rendered.

GRAND LARCENY.

John H. Cannon and Michael McCullough were next tried for grand larceny, in stealing a bolt of copper worth $50.

The principal witness was a Mr. Pearson, who deposed that he was a Dock Agent of the Baltimore Transportation Company. His testimony was insufficient. Mr. Spencer defended the prisoner, and the Jury acquitted him.

COUNTERFEIT MONEY.

Martha Lane, a colored girl, was tried for passing a $5 bill on the Ocean Bank, at the store of Mr. John W. Mead, No. 147 Varick-street, knowing said bill to be counterfeit.

A smart little lad, named Jacob Schroeder was the principal witness. The prisoner handed him the bill and asked if it was good. He replied in the affirmative and gave her the change.

Mr. Charles Spencer defended the prisoner, and the Jury lost no time in acquitting her.

ANOTHER CHARGE OF PASSING COUNTERFEIT MONEY.

David McNotten was tried for passing a counterfeit $10 on the Delaware City Bank. Mr. Richard Dillon, a druggist, corner of Rose and Pearl streets, was the only witness. The evidence was strong against the prisoner, who was charged with forgery in the second degree. Mr. Charles Spencer defended him. The Jury convicted him of forgery in the fourth degree.

LONG ISLAND.

Suffolk County Returns.

The county cast 3,249 votes for Secretary of State, of which Headley had 1,114, Hatch 1,048, and King 972—Headley's plurality being 66.

Rider went out of the county with 110 majority for Senator.

Rose (Independent) was elected County Judge over all regular nominees by several hundred votes.

As to County Clerk there is still a doubt whether Carpenter (K. N.) or Scudder is elected—the figures (unofficial) tie them.

Carman (K. N.) is Sheriff.

Suffolk sends two Democrats to the Assembly. In the First District, Floyd, against whom the K. N.'s and Temperance-men threw themselves, is elected by 23 majority. In the Second District, Wm. Sidney Smith (Dem'c) is elected by 12 majority. Both are men of influence, wealth, character and independence.

☞ The Kings County Board of Canvassers assembled yesterday afternoon, and reached the 17th Ward before adjournment. They are much delayed by irregularities in some of the returns.

Hogs and Corn.

The Toledo Blade of the 9th inst., says that: "In the country adjacent to Toledo, corn is scarce and hogs not over plenty. Pork will probably be high this Fall and Winter, as but little can be made. Mast in the woods is very scanty the least for a number of years, and grain is worth more to sell in the market than to fatten hogs. Quite a quantity hogs were brought up last Summer and shipped East, alive. One drover of our acquaintance, residing in Williams County, has driven over 4,000 head out of that county alone. There will probably be but little packing done here this Winter. Dressed hogs are selling for 5c.@5¼c. for common, and 7c. for heavy. In the Southern portion of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, and in Missouri and Kentucky, the corn crop has been good, and the prospects for pork are also good. In Indianapolis corn is selling at 25c.@30c. ⅌ bushel and dressed pork is worth $6 ⅌ 100 lbs. net."

The Cincinnati Gazette, of the 10th inst., says that, "Hogs are held as heretofore, with great firmness, and from 25 to 50 per cent. above the views of buyers. Holders of heavy Hogs contend for $7, and there are no sellers below $6 75 for delivery this month, but these rates being above the views of buyers, prices must be set down as nominal."

The St. Louis Intelligencer, of the 9th inst., says that, "Hogs were offered to-day at $6, but buyers at that figure were not about. The rate up the country appears to be $5@$5 25, and slow at the latter price."

The Louisville Commercial Review, of the 8th inst., says that "the market for Hogs is dull at 5c.@5¼c. from the hooks. Purchasers are not offering over 5c. net for Hogs, and feeders are not willing to accept this price. Both buyers and sellers are rather holding off, and the market will not display very great activity until the packing season opens. Farmers are selling in Madison county at 4½c. gross. Sales of 1,200 head have been made at this price since our last. In Henry and Shelby counties farmers hold at 5c., but buyers refuse to accede to their demands, and do not offer above 4½c. No sales have been effected at this price in the two last named counties. In Madison and surrounding counties Hogs are quickly purchased when offered at 4½c., which is equal to 4¾c. from the hooks in Louisville."

Albany Lumber Market, Nov. 10.

Business has been active during the week; sales and shipments heavy, though the latter have been restricted by the scarcity of vessels, of which a large number are wanted to carry off lumber already sold at improving freights. The assortment of lumber in market is good, and the supply ample, except of clear pine and best shaved shingles, which are in limited supply. Prices remain as per previous quotations.

A MAIL ROBBER ARRESTED.—On the 11th August last, and the 2d September, what is called the treasure—a brass-lock mail-bag, from Louisville—mysteriously disappeared. The matter was kept very quiet, and no publication given to the loss; but the Mail Agent has been on the look out ever since. A month or two since, a draft was presented at the banking-house of PADDOCK & BROTHER, on Third-street, by a young man, who asked if it was of any account. Mr. PADDOCK hesitated in giving an answer, when the young man turned on his heel, and left rather in a hurry. Information was given to the officers, and on last Saturday Policemen PARKER and HURST arrested a young man, by the name of SAMUEL MATTHEWS, on suspicion of knowing something about the robbery of the mail. Subsequently, while in jail, the prisoner made confession that he was guilty; that at the time of the robbery he was driving the express mail wagon from the landing, and on the 11th of August took the treasure bag and opened it, and for his pains procured about $30, throwing the documents which he considered to be of no account to himself down an out-house, back of a stable near Ninth and Walnut. On the 2d of September he again robbed the bag of near $400—disposing of the letters, &c., which contained no money, in the same manner as on the former occasion. This morning, MATTHEWS was brought before Commissioner WARNER, and upon confessing his guilt, was committed to answer, in default of $5,000. He denies having any accomplices.—Cincinnati Times, 10th.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 14—P. M.

There was a further improvement to-day in the Stock market, and less difficulty was experienced in Money loans among the Stock Brokers. The rates of interest on Mercantile paper, however, keep up, and the Discount Brokers are busy at 12 ⅌ cent., first-class names, with an occasional exception at 10 ⅌ cent. The delivery of $1,654,000 California Gold from the Empire City, and the sailing of the Baltic for Liverpool without a dollar of Specie, afford much encouragement. Bills on England closed 108¾@108½, bankers' names, most of the business done at the inside rate and 108¼. Some large Sterling loans were made yesterday on the hypothecation of Erie Stock, and the bills resold, second hand, on terms that influenced the withdrawal of a lot of Specie intended for the French steamer on Saturday. Such at least is current rumor in the Street. The Bulls in Erie, at all events, feel greatly strengthened in their ability to hold for prices which they deem more consistent than present rates with the annual report the Directors of the Company are about to make of the business of the Rail Road year which closed on 1st October. They are understood to retire this week about 8,000 shares. The Stock advanced 2 ⅌ cent. to-day, and sold 10 ⅌ cent. above the lowest point of last week. The transactions were large, and the movement of buyers, to all seeming, unusually confident. The sales of Illinois Central Bonds were also heavy, nearly $200,000, closing 78¾. Reading and the Western Stocks firm, with an advance of 1¼ on Toledo, 1 ⅌ cent. on Galena, and 3 ⅌ cent. on Cleveland & Pittsburg. Rock Island shares, of which the amount on the Street is not large, sold 89½ cash, and 90 on short time. The two Michigan Road Stocks stood pretty much as on Tuesday. The general market closed steady.

The deposits of California Dust and Bullion, at the Assay Office, exceeded a million of dollars; part of it ordered into Coin, and part held
